GOING TO LAW. "Lawing" ispretty well shown up in the following anecdote of two Dutchmen, who built and used in common a small bridge over a small stream which ran through their farms. It seems they had a dispute concerning certain repairs which it required, after a time, one of them declining to bear any portion of the expense necessary to the purchase of two or three new plunk. blow, and in a great measure prove the Finally the aggrieved party went to the neighboring lawyer, and placing ten dol-"Such is our present case, that we are lars in his hand, said, "I'll give yournli dis monies, if you make Hans do justice mit de bridge."

"How much will it cost to repair the bridge?" naked the honest counsellor of the determined litigant,

"Well, den not more as five dollars," replied the Dutchman. "Very well," said the lawyer, pocketing one of his notes and giving him the other, "take this and go and get the bridge repaired; its the best course you can take." "Ynas," said the Dutchman, slowly, "y-a-a-s, dat more better as to quarrel mit

As he went along home, he shook his head frequently, as if unable, after all, quite clearly to see how he had gained anything by going to law.
