The following article of Dr. J. V. C. Smith shows the management of horses in the East, in this respect :-

"Barns are not required in Syria, no hay oven bening cut or in demand-cattle, gnots, sheep, &c., having excellent food the year round. Horses are far better managed in Syria, than in England, or in the United States, more spirited, and endure the severest kind of futigue better than in Europe, or our own best countries. The system of feeding which is uniform throughout the cast, is to give them fine straw, broken up by pounding, analagous to being cut. It is put into a small bag. containing perhaps a peck, mixed with four quarts of barley, or beans if preferred. When put up for the night, the bail of the bag containing their suppor, is slipped over If AVING purchased the TORL of BIGLER & CO., in their cars, and they are left to make their GOUDS. meal and then have a regular night's sleep. Early in the morning the meal is repeated, nothing more is given them; in fact, the article of hay is unknown. I have ridden one horse twenty days-often ten hours at a time—without even stopping to

No such custom as luncheon for horses is recognized. Night and morning are the meal times for them, for donkeys and comels....

Their endurance under immenso loads day after day, sure footedness and vivacity are extraordinary, and a theme of admiration. One month in the year, June, they are turned out leisurely to grass and then the dry straw and provender is invariably resumed. In this connection it may be mentioned that in shocing horses the people of the Orient are far in advance of us .-The shoe is a thin piece of iron plate, covering the entire under surface of the hoof, except a small oval hole for the exit of the frog, which is pressed through and recovers its position by an elastic movement when the foot is raised. The shoc therefore is not a burden, but a genuine protection, vastly better than ours of a pound weight each.

Celery Culture.

Mr. Editor:—Those who are unacquainted with the use of Celery and protend to have a liking for the good things of life, winter luxury. (Those whose tastes conflict with mine, will please not account me an enthusiast.) I will briefly state the method of cultivating it: Raise the plants just like cabbage plants, that is sow the seed in some rich, loose soil, and let it grow two or three inches high. Then dig trenches twenty inches deep and fill half full of well decomposed chip manure, mixed with good garden mould. Set the mixed with good garden mould. Set the plants in these on some showery day, leaving a space of about eight inches between them. Keep them perfectly free from weeds, and as they grow pile the soil that was thrown out of the trenches around the stems, leaving only the top leaves above the earth. Again full the celery will have grown from twelve to twenty inches high, and then all that is necessary to preserve it Fan unders talke Notice. through the winter is to cover it over with .Aho romaining dirt in a similar way to the SUPERIOR THRESHING MACHINES manner cabbages are preserved. Ye who are opicures, buy a six pence worth of seed and try your success.
