To sum up all: if we must wholly perish, then is obedience to the laws but an insensate servitude; rulers and magistrates are but the phantoms which popular imbecility has raised up; justice is but an unwarrantable infringement upon the liberty of men-an imposition, a usurpation: modesty a prejudice; honor and probity, such stuff as dreams are made of; and incests, murders, and parricides, the most heart- MERCAANT and PRODUCE DEALER. man heart.—Mas illon. TO HAVE A GOOD HORSE.

It is not sufficient to have a good colt the product of a superior mare with a stallion of good blood and established reputation. This is necessary, but it is not all that is necessary. A most promising colt that attracts universal admiration while it CABINETMAKER-East end of State street-Curven Dec. 29, 1831. follows the mare, may be grown into an almost worthless horse. How then, having a good begining shall we grow a good horse, for good horses alone are profitable to raise? By exercising the greatest care in their management until they have ceased to be colts-Many ruin, almost, a colt the first winter by starvation, by turning it in the yard to run with the young cattle, to pick a scanty nourishment and that of the cheapest and coarsest food. There is on the other hand no one season of its life TANNER-At the JLD STAND in Curwetsville. when care, and good and full feeding of appropriate food will tell so much for good as this same first winter. A friend, who BOOT and SHOEMAKER-Curwonwille. Dec. 29 1851. for many years has annually sold two or three young horses at the highest market prices, has often assured us that at no time BLACKEMITH-At the Old Foundry-Curwensvil Dec. ED, 1851. in the life of his colts did he take so good care of them and feed them better than during their first winter; and that by the care of them and feed them better than effect produced upon them the first year he could tell what kind of horses they would become. There is something so TANNER and BOOT and SHOE MANUFACTURERabsurd in scanting the supply of nourishment to a young growing animal! Some fancy that such a course will 'render the animal hardy. The only effect produced upon the growing animal by an insufficient nutrition, is to hinder his best developement. Wait until he has attained his growth, and thenstint him if you choose. It can be done then with less injury.

Colts are often put to hard work at too young an age. It not unfrequently happens that you will see a horse of five years old with all the wear and tear of ten in his appearance. This should never be. The exercise of the same judgement in the management of colts most used towards children would provent this.

Colts should be put to exercise and training at an early age; and may do light labor to advantage, but to put upon four years the labor proper only for six and seven years, has been the ruin of many promising animals. There are other a suggestions that occur properly in this er suggestions that occur properly in this connection, but we will omit them, considering the two mentioned above as the most important.—Granite farmer.

Every farmer should see daily every animal he has, and inspect its condition. Weekly visits, as with some, soon result in weakly animals. The man who provides well sheltered cotes for his sheep in winter, will soon find plenty of coates for his own back.

Heavy carrot crops for cattle, will soon return carats of gold.

BARON LIBBIG, in his celebrated work on Animal Chemistry, as a: "An Artificial Digestive Finid may be readily obtained from the monous membrane of the stomach of a Call, in which various articles of food, as meat and ergs, will be Sofene I, Changed, and Diaested, precisely in the same manuer as they would be in the buman atomach,"

DR. PEREIFA, in his famous synatise on "Food and Diet." published by Wilson & Co., New York, onge 33, states the same great fact, and describes the method of preparation.—
There are few higher authorities than Dr. FereiBr. JOHN W. DIRAPER, Professor of Chemistry in the Melical College of the University of New York, in his "Text Book of Chemistry," puge 338, says. "It has been a question whether artificial direction could be performed—but it is now universally admixed that it may be.

Professor DUNG LISON of Philadolohia, in his great work on Haman Physiology, devoves more than fifty pages to an examination of this subject. His experiments with Dr. Beamont, on the Gastric Jaice, obtained from the living human stomach and from animals are well known. "In all cases," he says "digestion occurred as perfectly in the Artificial as in the Natural digestions."
