SHOEMARINOBY MACHINERY.—A Bridge water correspondent of the Plymouth Memorial gives the following account of the progress of stitching by machinery: antilast: week we saw in operation what We never happened to meet with before-a Zewing machine. The one we saw has lately been brought into the place, and is used for stitching shoes. We understand that these machines are becoming quite common, one shoe establishment in Abington making use of no less than six. It is said that an operator, with the machine, will stitch in a day: ten times the amount usually accomplished by a 'stitcher,' and that the cost is very materially reduced. The machine did the work very neatly, and so far as we see very thoroughly.
