Several private bills were considered and passed.

The Senate went into executive session; and, after some time, information was received of the death of Senator Upham; whereupon the Senate adjourned.

House.—The bill to prevent frauds on the treasury was passed by a vote of yeas 124, nays 23. And then, going into Committee of the Whole on the State of the Union, Mr. Seymour, of Connecticut, was called to the chair, and the committee proceeded to the further consideration of the bill to suppress the circulation of small notes in the District of Columbia; upon which Mr. Ficklin, who reported the bill, addressed the committee at length. Subsequently it was debated by many members in five minutes' speeches, on various
