We marched to "My term of enlistment soon expired, our sentries at night, and great dissatisfac- homes in Connecticut.". . tion existed until Gen. Gates took command, when new spirits were instilled into our soldiers, our rations became ample and good, with a gill of New England rum to each man per day. Gates said: 'Mv boys, we will now go back and meet them-no more retreating.' 'Amen!' said every heart. We re-crossed the sprout (stream,) and met the British near Stillwater-told them by our fortifications they would come no further.

"Here they were strongly fortified, but must have known they were in a bad situation. I suppose they thought of Bennington, and that the Green Mountain boys would be at their backs. Soon they chose to risk a battle, and attacked the right wing of our army. This was a bloody half day, until dark at night, and our forces lay on the ground ready for the event of the morning. The British returned to their quarters, rested awhile, and then attacked us again on the same ground .--Here, as in the former engagement, Arnold had command of the fighting forces. He did not lack skill or courage in this battle, and I would 'give the d-l his due.' The enemy fell back, and we took some prisoners and several pieces of artillery. We lay upon our arms that night, and were so near the British that we could hear the Hessians relieve their guards. A great noise was kept up in their camp all
