Blaine, who wrote, some years since, upon the diseases of ani-mals, describes the operation, see peculiar in this disease, of drawing in the breath quickly and throwing it out slowly with a double effort and a sudden drop of the flanks, thus: "The usual muscles operate, and the auxiliary muscles, particu-larly the abdominal, are put on the stretch to complete the expulsion more perfectly, and that being done the flank falls, or the aldominal muscles relax, with a kind of jerk to rspasm." The difficulty of throwing out the breath is attributed by Yount to an emphysematous or swollen condition of the lungs. The inner
