BARK BOUND TREES. - Some over-wise propisihaye an idea that when a tree gets mousy and bark-bound—the latter but another term for want of growth, and weakmess consequent upon neglected cultivation—it is only necessary to slit the bark up and down the stem with a jack-knife, and it will at once spread out and grow.-This is sheer nonsense. Dig about and cultivate the roots, and the bark will take care of itself: with scraping off the moss and a washing of the stem with ley or soap suds, or chamber slops, which is quite us good. The increased flow of the sap, induced by a liberal feeding of the roots, will do its bursting of the "hide-bound" bark, which is simply its enfeebled condition as a consequence of its poverty of root.

No one thinks of turning out a bony, starved calf in the spring, into a clover field, with the skin on its sides all split through with a knife in order to add to its growth. And this last precaution is quite as sensible and philosophical as the other. Nature takes care of itself in these particulars. Sap in plenty is what blood is to animals. Its vigorous flow reaches every part of its composition, and gives to each its proper play and function. We can show frequent instances of a decrepid, shrivelled branch, by the throwing open and manuring of the roots and thorough pruning of the whole top, increasing from an inch to two inches in diameter in a single season and wihout assistance as it grew, burst ing and throwing off its old contracted bark as freely as the growth of a vigorous as paragus shoot would devlope itself in a warm shower in May. Such nostrums are only the invention of the head to ex cuse the laziness of the hands. American Agriculturist.

OATS AND CARROTS .- Why is it that our farmers do not pay more attention to the the cultivation of the carrot? It has been demonstrated again and again that it is a highly nutritious vegetable.—that stock of all kinds, especially milk cows, do well on it,-that it increases the quantity of the milk, adds to the flesh, and in a given bulk contains much more nutriment. and is, therefore, bushel for bushel, worth more than oats. In the transactions of the Worcester (Mass.) Agricultural Socie ty, recently published, we find an estimate showing the relative value of oats and carrots, from which it appears that the cost of raising an acre of carrots is about $25 more than for an acre of oats. It is estimated that 500 bushels of carrots may be raised on an acre, and 40 bushels of oats. This is the basis of calculation. Now as a matter of profit see the result. Calling the oats worth 35 cents per bushel we realize for the acre $14. Estimating the carrots at half that, or 171 cents per bushacre against $14 worth of oats.

A friend of ours, for instance, has an only son that he intends to send to the HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT Military Academy at West Point the very moment his "birds eye" arrangements are taken off. Having finished his education, he thinks he will then take to politics, and by the time he reaches thirty, will be either President of the United States or Minister to London. What a change a few additional brothers would make in the brilliant perspective spread out before this young gent! Instead of going to West Point, the author of his being would in all likelihood advise him to act as engineer to a plank road company, or consider himself "deviish well off" if his uncle John should appoint him assistant foreman to a lath factory. WMrs. Bloomer imagines that the reason women differ from men, is because they are schooled and educated differently. Nothing however could be more unfounded. Pensburst, Kent, dated December 13, 1850. first thing a girl "sets her heart on" is a doll and a set of half fledged cups and saucers. Girls are given to neatness and hate soiled garments of all kinds; boys, on the contrary set a high value on dirt, and are never so happy as when sailing a shingle ship, with a brown paper sail, in a mud puddle. Mrs. Bloomer may reason as sho may, but she will find in the end that Nature is stronger than either philosophy or suspenders.
