This is not the only instance on record of a wolf having brought upa young child, whom it had carried away from its parants. Some fourteen months ago an animal was taken in the district of Mozuffernugger, und brought to the station of Meerut. It was the soles of the feet were as hard as the hoofs of a horse. His movements were as nimble as those of a monkey, and not unlike those of that animal. Several English dogs which saw this child showed a disposition to attack and destroy it (this was, of course, prevented,) while the thild in return snarled at the dogs, and shewed its teeth, as though it were upon these weapons that it would rest its defence. This boy, too, like the one taken in Oude, refused to eat anything but animal fooduncooked; nor would it tuch even that in the presence of a human being!
