Mary Connell, 3 17 and physical suffering, are traceable to certain do do 5 39 habits, forming the most secret, yet deadly and fatal springs of domestic misery and premature mertality.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.—There is an 19 49 ovil habit sometimes indulged in by boys, in soil tude, often growing up with them to manhood, and which if not reformed in due time, not only beget serious obstacles to matrimonial happiness, but rives rise to a series of protracted insidious and devastating affections. Fow of those who give way to this pernicious practice are aware of the cease, quences, until they find the nervous system shatter. ed, feel strange and unaccountable feelings and vague fears in the mind.

The unfortunate thus affected becomes feeble, is unable to labor with accustomed vigor, or to apply his mind to study; his step is tardy and weak, he is dull, irresolute, and engages in sport with less

MARRIAGE requires the fulfilment of several conditions, in order that it may really be the cause of mutual happiness. Could the veil which covers the origin of domestic wretchedness be raised, and its true source in every instance disclosed, in how many could it be traced to physical disqualifications and their attendant disappointments.
