The News.

The European news is unimportant. An earthquake occurred in Quite, South America, nearly destroying the city, and killing two thousand persons.

The Sickles trial has closed and the jury are out upon it.

Ex-President Pierce, and his lady, are in Rome. The health of the latter is still very feeble.

An extensive crevasse broke through on the Mississippi last week, which was causing much damage.

The crops this far look promising everywhere, and a plentiful harvest is anticipa-

And here, again, there were those who were unkind enough to intimate, that, if they were so gularly honest.

But, regardless of the opinions of the be nighted people, they proclaimed unto all the world the asionishing fact, that they would meet together and purify the polities of the country. The Democratic party, however, did not seem willing to accept the kind of purity bought by worshipping at the shrine of those who are called "selfish disorganizers," and stood aloof from the gathering-they were bidden, but would not come-they utterly refused to follow these paragons of purity, and receive the curse.

STATE HOUSE, April 14th. R. H. KERR.

THE PITTSBURGH JOURNAL of a late date, contains a silly fling at Senator Bigler in general, and the Democratic party in contains a silly fling at Senator Bigler particular. But as all great reformers about the Post Office printing. We imparticular. But is all great reformers, have to contend with the monster distrust, they do not escape. Their motives are the nature of that business, for it certain they do not escape. Their motives are the nature of that business, for it certain impugned, and their purposes doubted. dium of these slanders and falsehoods.

The simple truth is, that there is no direction on the subject. The law fixes the price and the demands of the postal service regulate the quantity of the work. repudiated by the party which elected him; The Postmaster-General has the right to select the printer to execute this work, and that is all. He has nothing to do with the price or the quantity. He is a and yet this business is talked about as though he had given out a great job. He gives out just as much a job as the President does when he appoints a cit zen to a salaried office. He had a right to select whom he pleased, and Senator Bigler had a right to recommend whom he pleased. He did that, and that was all he did. The former proprietor of this paper, Mr. Rice. had this work for a time, we believe, and we presume he was paid at the rates prescribed in the law-not a cent more nor superlatively pure, it had lately come to same amount in any other hands. That them, as they before—even when making he had a misunderstanding with Mr. Wendell, who executed the work for him, may be true; but who cares for that, and whose business is it? It does not interest the public to the extent of a farthing,

The Press of this City has also occasionally referred to this subject, in a spirit of calumny that is most unbecoming to the Editor, for he knows that this printing is done under the same law, and in the same way, and at the same prices that it was, a few years back, when Col. Forney, as one of the publishers of the "Union," was a party to the contract and respect in profits. If it be wrong now, it must be admitted to have been quite as wrong then, unless it be assumed that the character of the editor of the Press is so pure and elevated as to sanctify every transaction with which he may be connected !- Daily Pennsylvani.m.
