To Our Patrons.

In assuming the responsible position of that of editor of a public journal the custom is well established requiring the person doing so to designate, at the thresh. old, the objects aimed at, and the principles and policy by which he intends to be guided.

We shall endeavor to do so in as few words as possible, and in terms so plain that all may understand.

To those who know us, it is unnecessary to say, that as far as politics is concerned the Republican will continue to be a warm and zealous supporter of the measures and nominees of the National Democratic party. Our common country has grown to a strength, a greatness and a position that have produced this state of prosperity and greatness. For this reason, if there were no other, there is at least
