The President's Escort.—It is now positively ascertained that Mr. Lincoln will depart for Washington on the 11th of February. He will go hence via Lafayette to Indianapolis...

Arrangements for special trains all the way through are making. No military escort will be accepted. The entire journey is to be made inside of ten days.

Place seekers will consult their own interests by abstaining henceforth from both personal and epistolary applications for offices.

A large and enthusiastic public meeting was held in Philadelphia composed entirely of workmen.

The meeting was harmonious and conciliatory, calling upon our Senators and members of Congress to adopt the Crittenden proposition.

A committee of thirty-three was appointed to proceed to Washington and lay their proceedings before the President and Congress.

A bill is now before the Legislature to form a new Judicial District, out of Jefferson, Forest, Elk, and Cameron counties.

Keystrokes.—The House of Representatives passed, on the 21st instant, a vote of 87 yeas to 6 nays a series of resolutions, declaring that in view of the men and money tendered to the General Government...

It is a bad omen to find that Senator Seward, the chosen Premier of the Lincoln Administration, voted against every one of the propositions offered by Senator Crittenden...

Its constitutional majority cannot be united in support of the "Crittenden resolutions," or the substance of them, then a dissolution of the Union is inevitable.

This is the closing language of the minority report of the Committee of Thirtysix in the lower House of Congress, submitted as the unanimous opinion of all the members from the South...

RETRIBUTION.—When it shall be generally admitted that the American Union is irreversibly broken up, settling day with the Northern Abolitionists will have arrived.

Then, the authors of the stupendous mischief will have to meet a storm of indignation before which they will wither, and incendiary lectures and preachers, of whatever name, will sink away confounded and self-condemned...
