THE LATEST NEWS!

The newspapers seem to vie with each other in attempting to cover up the late disaster near Leesburg.

From the stereotyped phrase "one killed four wounded," they at last admit that at least half that were engaged in the action are missing, whether that was 1700 or more, they cannot agree.

All the troops are back again on the Maryland side where they were a week ago. A correspondent of the Press says when our troops started to cross the Potomac the band played "Carry me back to Old Virginia." He also says that the movement of our troops was "rash, unnecessary, and undisciplined by high military authority." Yet the deed is done, but who is to blame?

The blockade of the Potomac, below Washington by the rebels has compelled the government to hire wagons to haul their provisions, &c., from Baltimore to Washington, the single track being unable to do the business.

The P. M. & A. Frank, E. q. informs us that he is now ready to exchange for old P. O. Stamps and envelopes, and will do so for the space of six days.

The Postmaster at Carlisle is preparing to exchange the new, for the old issue of stamps and stamped envelopes, which exchange must be made within six days of this notice, or the holder will lose them.

LETTER FROM THE SEAT OF WAR

CAMP PIERPONT, Va., Oct. 23, 1861.

Dear Republican:—When I addressed my last letter to you I scarcely expected to date another from this camp; but contrary to the general expectation we are here yet, although we have not been here quite all the time since, and are not likely to be very much longer.

The orders and general arrangements since we have been stationed here have indicated an early forward movement. The several brigades of McColl's division, comprising the entire Penna. Reserve, have been habitually forming every morning at daybreak, since we crossed the Potomac, and awaiting orders. For several mornings, after standing in ranks an hour or so, we were dismissed to our quarters with excellent appetites for breakfast, and the caution to be ready to "fall in" at a moment's notice; which notice has been indefinitely postponed; until last Saturday morning, when, after having been ordered the night previous to prepare ourselves with two days rations, in knapsacks, and our blankets and overcoats in knapsacks, we took up our line of march from camp and struck out on the Leesburg turnpike in the direction of that place, in which direction we proceeded about fifteen miles, with occasional halts of a few minutes.

We arrived at a place a short distance beyond Drainsville about 4 o'clock p. m. and halting prepared our supper. After resting at this point for about two hours, for some reason unknown to us, (I mean to the soldiers, as I trust our commanders knew why,) we fell back about three miles and there bivouacked for the night in fence corners and under the bushes by the road side. The night however was not cold and we all got along very comfortably. Having taken no blanket with me I lay beneath a clump of chestnut bushes.

"Like a warrior taking his rest, with my martial cloak around me," and enjoyed a sound and refreshing sleep. We saw no armed secessionists during our march, although we encountered quite a number unarmed, but they were principally females; the males being either soldiers in the secession army, fugitives or prisoners. The ladies seemed to feel no hesitation about expressing their secession sentiments; and one comely and spirited looking lassie at Drainsville, told some of the boys who had opened a conversation with her that we would get, and in a short time she would see us coming back faster than we went. However I am happy to be able to record, that our troops by their orderly and manly conduct, made a most favorable impression on the inhabitants wherever we went; and many acts of kindness were performed towards our men by those who took no pains to conceal their abhorrence of our cause and the motives which brought us among them. One lady said very emphatically, to one of our officers, that she had received an entirely different impression of the character of our troops, as being a lawless, brutal and barbarous horde which would stop at no crimes or enormities; but that if all our soldiers were like those she saw, it would be no use for their men to try to cope with them.—Such incidents as this are some of the few redeeming features of this war of brethren, and will do something towards modifying the hardships that are daily suffered by those who are innocent of any act to bring it on or continue it.

We remained at our bivouac during Sunday, and late on Monday forenoon, started on our march back to this place

When we arrived at half past three o'clock

As I said, we saw no secessionism upon our march and but little signs, although we learned that the brigade of General Walker comprising three Mississippi and one Virginia regiments, passed on the river from Fairfax, through the country in which we stopped, to the bank of the Potomac at Great Falls, and back by way of Leesburg to Fairfax again, about two weeks ago, on an armed reconnaissance. Runners also reached us of a force at Leesburg, and our advance pickets reported seeing those of the enemy at one or two points at some distance off, which I considered rather doubtful, as it is easy to mistake a man at a mile or so, and there was no other evidence of a force so near as to bring their pickets in sight. The force thus thrown out in the direction of Leesburg consisted of Reynolds' (1st) brigade, Meade's (2nd) and the balance of the Penna. Reserve Infantry and Cavalry, and two batteries of Campbell's Artillery, amounting to about ten thousand men. The Kanoe rifle regiment proceeded us as skirmishers, and our regiment (the Penna. 5th) followed next with a battery of artillery, after which came the balance of our brigade (the 1st) and two other batteries, and the remainder of the body in the rear. The object of our expedition was understood to be an armed reconnaissance, to ascertain whether the enemy had any force near us in that direction, and if possible their numbers and position, but not to engage them unless first attacked. Strange as it may seem, while we were marching leisurely down the Potomac along the Leesburg turnpike on our return from the vicinity of Drainsville, a part of Gen. Stone's command under Gen. Baker had effected the passage of the Potomac at Edward's Ferry near Darnestown, and advancing upon Leesburg, had engaged the secession force there under Gen. Evans, and a battle was then actually in progress, although beyond our hearing, and of which we were at that time profoundly ignorant as we had heard about twelve or thirteen miles below that point, and knew nothing of Gen. Stone's movement. The engagement, as we learned next morning after our return, lasted until evening and resulted in the death of Gen. Baker and wounded two hundred others killed and wounded.

We had hardly got to our quarters before we were again ordered to prepare two days rations and hold ourselves in readiness to march at a moment's notice. Tired as we all were, the order was obeyed with alacrity, and in a short time had everything in readiness. We however retired to our tents at an early hour, determined to obtain all the rest we could before taking the road again, expecting to be called up and marched off before morning. Fortunately we were permitted to enjoy an undisturbed repose until a late hour next morning; our kind-hearted Colonel omitted, in consideration of our weariness, the usual morning roll call at day break at which every fellow has to be upon his pins. When I awoke at day break, not a little astonished to find myself still in camp Pierpont at that hour, I found that it was raining quite smartly, and hearing no stir in camp that denoted a movement, I turned over and took another nap of about two hours, waking again about eight o'clock—later than I have lain in bed for many months. Upon arising I found that all yesterday's fatigue had disappeared, and I was fresh and vigorous as ever. Since then we have remained in camp, our marching orders not coming until this evening, and now we confidently expect to bid adieu to this place at an early hour to morrow morning.

The rain of yesterday morning continued until to-day, and since the weather has cleared off it has become quite cold. So much so that it is decidedly uncomfortable in my tent to-night although wearing an overcoat as I am striving to furnish your readers with a few items of the experiences of a

SOLDIER.

P. S.—Perhaps I should add that I have no idea of our destination, but as soon as I get an opportunity will inform you, if we have any mail facilities at our next station; for I find the farther we get from Washington the less certainty there is in sending or receiving letters.

Twenty-five to Sixty Dollars and expenses per month will be paid by the Erie Sewing Machine Company to their Agents for selling the Erie Sewing Machine. This is a new Machine, and so simple in its construction that a child can operate it by half an hour's instruction. It is equal to any Family Sewing Machine in use, and they take the premium over any other one hundred dollar machine. The price is but Fifteen Dollars. The Company wish to employ Agents in every county in the United States. Address, for particulars, Erie Sewing Machine Co., R. JAMES, General Agent, Milan, Ohio. oct13-4m.

MARRIED.—In Covington tp., on the 19th inst. by F. P. Coutier, Esq., Mr. John E. Kirtland, to Miss Catherine Pinkle of Durston tp., Centre Co.

DIED.—Very suddenly in Brady tp., on Monday the 21st inst., Philip K. Rizer, aged about 75 years. New York Papers please copy. On Thursday the 24th inst., SAMUEL FULTON, Esq., aged 54 years.

The deceased was a native of Ireland, but reached this country when quite young, and emigrated to this country along with its first settlers. No citizen was more universally respected. During the most active years of his life he followed the business of surveying, which gave him an extended acquaintance throughout this and the adjoining counties. Of that hardy class of men who braved the hardships and privations of a life in the wilderness, and settled on the West Branch about the beginning of the present century, Mr. Fulton performed a conspicuous part. Of a naturally free and jovial disposition, the grubbing or the chopping frolic; or the house or barn raising—with the good time afterwards—was always a dull affair without him; and many are the rich and lively anecdotes he used to relate of early times in Clearfield county.

He was, it seems of much mind, a diligent reader, and possessed a memory that never let anything escape.

Besides that of Surveyor he held several other respectable positions—Commissioner, Treasurer, Prothonotary, &c., before an I soon after the regular organization of the county.

SEWING & GIBBS.

WILCOX & GIBBS.

Price with Hemmer and Feller, $35 00.

THIS MACHINE HAS A POINT OF SUPERIORITY PECULIARLY ITS OWN.

Stitching, Hemming, and Felling with a Single Thread.

It forms a flat, even, and elastic seam, which is WARRANTED not to rip in wear, even if the seam is cut at frequent intervals, and also under all circumstances "TO ADVANCE THE WEAR" of a garment.

A Patented device of great utility to learners, prevents the possibility of the machine being run in the wrong direction, or the balance wheel wearing a lady's dress.

Another feature which deserves particular attention is THE WILCOX PATENT NEEDLE CANNOT BE SET WRONG.

Two thousand stitches, or two yards of work, can be done in one minute without dropping a stitch.

These machines, so simple and accurate in their construction, supersede the use of the shuttle; and with one thread produce all the practical results of the two thread machines; and more, for these fell without hasting, and hem the finest muslin without puckering.

Although at about half the price of the other first class machines, they will accomplish double the sewing in a given time.

"It is especially the good, low-priced Family Sewing Machine that the public have long been waiting for."—Boston Transcript.

"It is indeed a wonderful production, and for family use especially, no other will bear any comparison with it."—Philadelphia Evening Journal.

"A mechanical wonder."—Spirited American.

"Among the best and most serviceable Sewing Machines. Light and elegantly finished, and so simple in its construction that it seems almost impossible for it to get out of repair."—Pittsburgh Chronicle.

"Has combined with its own peculiar merits all the really valuable improvements of the highest priced machines."—Pennsylvania.

"This machine, in the opinion of the committee, fills more nearly the requirements of a perfect family machine than any on exhibition."—Franklin Institute Exhibition Report of 1858.

"Taking into consideration simplicity, cheapness, durability, and doing all work, the committee were unanimously in favor of the Wilcox & Gibbs as a single thread machine."—Pennsylvania State Agricultural Society's Report.

"We must, in justice, express our confidence in the merits of the Wilcox & Gibbs Sewing Machine. We consider that a great desideratum has been supplied by it, in proving, beyond doubt, that two threads are not, as was supposed, necessary to a good instrument."—Christian Advocate and Journal, June 21, 1860.

"We have one of these machines in use, and would have no more highly of it than of any of the number we have tried."—Richmond Whig.

The undersigned, Missionary to Constantinople, has examined more than twenty different kinds of Sewing Machines, and after some six weeks experience with Wilcox & Gibbs' Patent, he has purchased one of them, as the best adapted to the wants of his family, and as the least liable to require repair. OLIVER CRANE.

Boston, July 3, 1860. The undersigned, during eighteen months has had in almost constant use, in his family Wilcox & Gibbs Sewing Machine, upon which has been made the clothes of his large family, from muslin to pilot cloth—including the clothing required for his several boys; and in no case have the seams failed, although in hard service. The machine now in use in his family has required no repair, and is in all respects well adjusted, efficient and durable. JACOB CHICKERING, Boston. Send for a Circular. JAMES WILCOX, Manufacturer.
