Heavy armaments were fitting out for Canada; and the export of powder, seltpeter and other ingredients for the manutacture of ammunition, was prohibited by order of Privy Council.

The War News is not important. The city of Charleston was reported to have been burnt to ashes to prevent its falling into the hands of the Federal army; but later advices lead to the belief that it was only visited by a severe conflagration, but whether the result of accident or design is not known.
