The Fast Line East does not stop at Tyrone

☞There are Twenty-two merchants in Clearfield county who have thus far failed to pay me their License for 1861. I notified the whole of them of this fact last fall by letter. I now notify them through the press, and all that fail to pay me by March Court will be notified in some other way. If "turf" will not do, I will try what virtue there is in "stones."

March 12, '62. G. B. GOODLANDER.

☞Court called on Monday at 10 o'clock. But few constables and suitors made their appearance. The argument list was taken up and disposed of, and some Orphan's Court business passed upon, when it adjourned until this afternoon for the purpose of disposing of a few Licenses, Sheriff's Deeds, and other matters of but little importance.

☞Messrs. Patton, Wright, Biddle and Jonston, of the National House of Representatives, have our thanks for various interesting public documents.

Our members at Harrisburg, Messrs. Early and Ziegler, are indefatigable in this respect, which is the best of evidence that the interests of their constituents are not neglected.

☞Tavern-keepers and Merchants will bear in mind the fact, that all licenses granted at the present term of court must be lifted within fifteen days, or else they will be forfeited.

WE APOLOGIZE.—We assure our three worthy friends of Karthaus township, who remind us of our error in locating either the scene or the actors of a certain "Assault" which we noticed two or three weeks ago, in their township, that the mistake was entirely inadvertent on our part. Nor can we explain exactly how it happened. It is quite possible that a potation had some suggestive influence on our mind at the time, as the time was when Karthaus township was some on pugilistic feats. We shall try and remember, hereafter, that her reputation in this regard—like her political complexion—has undergone a most favorable change.

THEY ARE NOT STONES.—The Harrisburg correspondent of the Pittsburg Dispatch, under date of March 7th, says:

"Ex-Senator Bigler made his appearance in the Hall to-day, looking extremely well; several Republicans remarked that they would prefer to see him yet in the Senate, to either Cowan or Cameron. How complimentary?"

We can assure this correspondent that the "Republicans" he refers to are not the only ones who entertain this impression. They are to be found wherever there is a sound and loyal heart, free from unworthy prejudice.

THE NEWS.

Much of our space is occupied with the accounts of the naval engagement at Fortress Monroe. That affair demonstrates that a complete revolution in Naval architecture is about to take place, and that the formidable wood built vessels of former days are of no consequence at all compared to such monsters as the iron-clad Merrimac (called the Virginia by the Confederates,) and Monitor. Nothing of importance has occurred in that vicinity since that affair. Neither of the last two vessels are believed to have suffered any serious damage.

From the Southwest we have important news. Gen. Curtis fought the rebels and defeated them with great loss at Pea Ridge Arkansas—one account making our loss at 1000 killed and wounded, and that of the rebels, including the celebrated Ben McCulloch, at from two to three thousand. This took place on the 7th, 8th and 9th inst.

About the same time a skirmish took place at Paris, Tenn., from whence the rebels were driven, and the place occupied by our troops. The loss was severe on both sides.

But the most important event is the withdrawal of the rebels from Manassas, Winchester, and other points on the Potomac; and also from New Madrid, on the Mississippi river, some 25 miles from Columbus, Ky., and their reported evacuation of Island No. 10, which it was said they were strongly fortifying. It is not known to what point they have fallen back to in Virginia, but it is surmised that they will attempt a stand at Gordonsville, making the course of the Rappahannock their line of defence. In the West, it has been thought that the abandonment of Island No. 10 would be the surrender of the entire Mississippi to New Orleans.

On the 18th of February, a rebel Texan force attacked Fort Craig, New Mexico, and were driven, or fell back, drawing the Union forces into an ambush, where a sharp fight took place, resulting in severe loss on both sides. Again on the 21st another engagement took place, which resulted in both parties claiming the victory. Our loss was severe, but entire confidence is entertained in Col. Canby, the commander, being able to retain the fort, if the volunteers will do their duty.

NOT CRAZY DEAD.—Senator Sumner's theory that southern States and citizens are all dead, civilly speaking, received judicial interpretation on Wednesday in the Supreme Court of New York. Counsel held that defendants in a certain case, residing in Savannah, and being unable to be present, under the conditions of war, were to be treated as civilly dead, and that the assignors in the case were not entitled to give testimony which related to personal interviews between the parties.—Judge James overruled the defendant in this point. Which, taken in connection with the vote in the House on Wednesday, goes to show that south-ern States and citizens are not dead yet.

☞The Detroit Free Press thinks the rebellion will soon be at an end, but, it well and truly says, "the causes of future insurrections will linger in the body politic just so long as in any part of the country the doctrines of recession or abolition are tolerated. There can be no permanent peace when men are allowed to preach the "higher law" and "irrepressible conflict," or the right of States to defy the the General Government. All there are treasonable. They have bred civil war, and were intended to breed it. They are unclean spirits which pervade the nation, and must be cast out if we return to our old happiness and prosperity."

RESULT AT GORDONSVILLE.—The statements of all persons in the vicinity concur that the rebel forces have retreated to Gordonsville. This would place them behind the Rappahannock river, the crossing of which, by the Union army, could be strongly resisted, as the bridge is 1200 feet long. This bridge the rebels will doubtless destroy. The country about Gordonsville is rolling and susceptible of good defences, though the Rappahannock bottom is wide, and only about two feet higher than the water in its usual winter stage.

But though the rebel officers may have designed to stop at Gordonsville, it is by no means certain that they have done so, as they retreated in a most excited and disorderly manner. They would have the advantage there of a narrower front and greater concentration of forces.

☞It is wise and well to look on the cloud of sorrow as though we expected it to turn into a rainbow.
