

EXAMPLES.—No child was ever born that did not love itself better than its companions. Let a mother set a dish of fruit before a child when there is a group of other children standing near, and the first impulse of the child is to appropriate the whole of the fruit for itself, and to look upon those other wistful eyes as eyes of enemies. The mother begins to try the child, and says, "My dear, divide the fruit, and give some to Mary and William." The command is unobeyed to the child's selfishness. It does not want to divide; but the mother's authority compels it to do so, and it does it with many tears. But when it is done, the mother talks to the child, and says, "How noble it is to be generous!" And the next time the child has to divide fruit, it does it reluctantly; its selfishness has to be crucified, and it suffers; but it does give away two out of six apples. And then it is praised. By this time it begins to get an idea that there is good in giving things away, and gives the third. Then it looks for praise, and the praise instantly comes, and it gives the fourth. Praise follows giving, and giving is rewarded by praise, till it comes to the last one, when it hesitates. And the next time, perhaps the girl is so much pleased with the remuneration of its higher feelings in the act of giving away, that it distributes all its fruit, and stands with nothing for itself. And the parent says to the child, "That is noble. Thus the child's better feelings are brought into the ascendancy, and its selfishness is compelled to take a subordinate position; and the child grows up to be a true, noble, manly boy. And he does not divide; he squanders in giving. He empties everything, and walks like a prince, feeling, "It is my nature to give, and I prefer to do it." There is no pain about his giving. The boy that gives freely would be ashamed to have it supposed that it cost him any struggle to give. He has overcome, he has crucified, the element of selfishness in himself; and being generous has become a pleasure to him.

This illustrates the fact that although every struggle between a higher and a lower feeling begins with the suffering of the lower; yet, when the lower is subdued and brought under the control of the higher, that which was painful at first becomes pleasurable. We see not only in children, but in ourselves, that although Christian cross bearing or self-denial begins with pain, if the process is rightly carried on it ends with pleasure and peace.

An apple in September is about as big as it is in October; the color is higher, and the flavor is a great deal better than in September. A man that is a moralist gets to September, and no further. When a man gets to October he is converted. Then the sour has become sweet. The shape is the same, and the weight is perhaps the same, but the quality is changed. The fruit is ripe, and saccharine has been developed instead of acids. There are thousands of men, by the shining of Christ through law, through society, through the family, through companionship, are carried far along the line of development, and want but little more than insidripening. There are many men, therefore, of whom, when they are converted, people say, "I do not see that they are much different from what they were before." No, you will not till you eat them. If you tasted them you would perceive the difference quick enough. It is in the inside that they are different, if anywhere. And there, the difference is not in the cellular construction. The pulp is the same; but the flavor of it, the quality of it, are not the same. What brought the change? The sun. And there are many men that grow up to such virtue, such morality, such general excellence, that if you see them by the side of Christians you cannot perceive externally that there is much difference between them and the Christians; and there is not much external difference. And if they are converted, you say, "I do not see any change." Nor you do not see any. It is in the pulp; in the mind; in the spiritual nature.—You cannot perceive it with the outward vision; but when you taste, as it were, the interior life of man, then the difference is apparent.

Barnum's last curiosity is a small baby; a very pocket edition of the article. The baby is eight months old, and weighs only one pound and seven ounces. It is perfect in form and features. An idea of its littleness may be gained from the fact that Mr. Barnum's finger ring can be easily passed over its foot and ankle to the knee.

Sound.—The Democratic Convention of Fairfield Co., Ohio, adjourned with "three cheers for the Union as it was, the Constitution as it is, and the niggers where they are."

"Why did you come back?" asked a sleek, well-fed citizen of a poor half-sick federal soldier just returned from McClellan's army. "Why don't you go?" replied the soldier.

Some fifteen or twenty officers have been sent home by Flag-Officer Farragut for habitual drunkenness. It is a singular fact that the man who pays the printer regularly never gets the night-mare. It is impossible to look at the sleepers in a church without being reminded that Sunday is a day of rest.

VULCANITE BASE FOR Artificial Teeth! ATTENTION! It is especially called for this article as a substitute for Gold in inserting Artificial Teeth. Many persons who have tried all kinds of Metallic Base PREFERRED this. In those cases where it is applicable it will undoubtedly become a substitute for Gold, Silver or Platina. Its chief advantages are cheapness, lightness and perfect adaptability to the mouth, it having a soft and fleshy feel to the parts with which it comes in contact.

A. M. HILLS is prepared to put up teeth on the Vulcanite Base with Goodyear's Patent Gum, which is the only reliable preparation and which can only be had through their regular agencies. Dr. Hills will always be in his office on Fridays and Saturdays, unless notice to the contrary appears in the public papers on the previous week. nov-28th 1861-1f. A. M. HILLS.

Important Information! Louden's Indian Expecto-rant. THIS REMEDY is offered to the community with the confidence we feel in an article which seldom fails to realize the happiest effects that can be desired. So wide is the field of its usefulness, and so numerous the cases of its cures, that almost every section of the country abounds with persons who are well known, who have been restored by its use. Here is one case of it.

ASTONISHING CURE! THIS MAY CERTAINLY be the case of a man who has been twelve months under the Doctor's care, with the disease of the Lungs, and every remedy prescribed by the Doctor failed to give relief. I gave up all hopes of his recovery; so did the physician. At this stage I prevailed upon him to try a bottle of LOUDEN & CO'S INDIAN EXPECTORANT, and the result was most happy, as the use of three bottles effected a permanent cure, and he is now a hearty boy. JAMES LAYTON, Derry Township, Indiana Co., Pa. No Family should be without it; and those who have used it, never will. I keep all of LOUDEN'S STANDARD FAMILY MEDICINES for sale. Call and see the list.

A. B. SHAW, Shawsville, Pa. For sale by other Merchants in Clearfield county. April 2, '62.—6m.

JAMES ANDERSON, Lumber City, June 25, 1862.

WILCOX & GIBBS' SEWING MACHINES. Price with Hemmer and Feller $35 00. THIS MACHINE HAS A POINT OF SUPERIORITY PECULIARLY ITS OWN. Stitching, Hemming, and Felling with a Single Thread.

It forms a flat, even, and elastic seam, which is WARRANTED NOT to rip in wear, even if the seam is cut at frequent intervals, and also under all circumstances "TO SURVIVE THE WASH-TUB." A patented device of great utility to learners, prevents the possibility of the machine being run in the wrong direction, or the balance wheel wearing a lady's dress.

Another feature which deserves particular attention is THE WILCOX PATENT NEEDLE CANNOT BE SET WRONG. Two thousand stitches, or two yards of work can be done in one minute without dropping a stitch.

These machines, so simple and accurate in their construction, supersede the use of the shuttle, and with one thread produce all the practical results of three thread machines; and more, for these fall without busting, and hem the finest muslin without puckering.

Although at about half the price of the other first class machines, they will accomplish double the sewing in a given time. It is emphatically the good, low-priced Family Sewing Machine that the public have long been waiting for.—Boston Transcript.

It is indeed a wonderful production, and for family use especially, no other will bear any comparison with it.—"Philaed" via Evening Journal.

"A mechanical wonder"—Scientific American. "Among the best and most serviceable Sewing Machines. Light and elegantly finished, and so simple in its construction that it seems almost impossible for it to get out of repair."—Pittsburg Chronicle.

"Has combined with its own peculiar merits all the really valuable improvements of the higher priced machines."—Pennsylvania. "This machine, in the opinion of a committee, fills more nearly the requirements of a perfect family machine than any on exhibition."—Franklin Institute Exhibition Report of 1858.

"Taking into consideration simplicity, cheapness, durability, and doing all work, the committee were unanimously in favor of the Wilcox & Gibbs as a single thread machine."—Pennsylvania State Agricultural Society's Report.

"We must, in justice, express our confidence in the merits of the Wilcox & Gibbs Sewing Machine. We consider that a great desideratum has been supplied by it, in proving, beyond doubt, that two threads are not, as was supposed necessary to a good machine."—Christian Advocate and Journal, June 21, 1859.

"We have one of these machines in use, and think more highly of it than any of the number we have tried."—Richmond Whig.

The undersigned, Missionary to Constantinople, has purchased more than twenty differ-ent kinds of Sewing Machines, and after some weeks experience with Wilcox & Gibbs' Pa-dia-na State Agricultural Society's Report. he has purchased one of them, as the best adapted to the wants of his family, and as the reliable to require repair. OLIVER CRANE, Boston, July 3, 1860.

The undersigned, during eighteen months has had in his family, and in the family of Wilcox & Gibbs Sewing Machine, upon which has been made the clothes of his large family, from muslin to pilot cloth—including the clothing required for his several boys; and in no case have the seams failed, although in hard service. The machine now in use in his family has required no repair, and is in all respects, well appointed, efficient and durable. JACOB CHICKERING, Boston. Send for a Circular. JAMES WILCOX, Manufacturer, No. 508 Broadway, New York, opposite St. Nicholas Hotel. October 23, 1861. 1f.
