AN UNUSUAL CHARACTER

Max had been a village school teacher, and was a very good one. His wife was a very good one, too. They were a very good couple.

The editor of the Augusta Age is confined to his room by rheumatism, and that our readers may see how gross and unreasonable is a sick editor, we append some of his reflections on the medical fraternity generally.

Didn't see it.—The Shakers at Lebanon Springs, N. Y., among their rules relating to visitors, have the following: "Married persons tarrying with us over night are respectfully notified that each sex will occupy separate sleeping apartments while they remain."

An Englishman boasting to an Irishman, that porter was good and drink, and soon afterwards becoming drunk, on returning home fell into a ditch, where Pat discovered him; and after looking at him for some time, exclaimed, "Arrah, my honey you said it was meat and drink to you! by my soul! it is a much better thing, for it is washing and bolting too!"

WHAT IS MAN?—Chemically speaking, a man is forty-five lbs. of carbon and nitrogen diffused through five and a half pounds of water.

THE TAX-PAYERS MANUAL will soon be published. It has but three principal orders, which are as follows: 1—Draw warrants! 2—Pork over! 3—Clear out!

A GENUINE "NINE DAYS" WONDER.—It was just nine days after Lincoln gave the Chicago Preachers conclusive reasons against the emancipation of Negroes, that he issued the Edict of Emancipation. The wonder consists in his change of mind.

What do they mean by a cat and dog life? said a husband to his angry wife. "Look at Carl and Kitty asleep on the rug together. I wish men lived half so peacefully with their wives." "Stop," said the lady, "tie them together and then see how they will agree."

Good morning, Mr. Henpeck; have you any daughters that would make good type setters? "Not exactly, but I have got a wife that would make a first rate devil."

Life is a lottery, but he who draws many corks won't be likely to draw much else.
