

CLEARFIELD, PA. Wednesday Morning, Dec. 16th 1863

THE MESSAGE

Much of our space is occupied with the third annual message of President Lincoln, and the extraordinary Proclamation appended thereto...

Will these terms be accepted by the rebels now in arms? Not by a man of them.

Will it strengthen the hands of the Union men in the South? No—because it confirms what the instigators of the rebellion have always alleged...

Will it add strength to a legitimate Union sentiment in the North? No—because it shows to the world not only that the Union cannot be thus restored...

Then why has Mr. Lincoln offered terms that cannot, and which he must have known would not, be accepted?

These are the great questions upon which the people are to reflect and act.
