Opinions are so conflicting, and theories so numerous, that it is scarcely possible at this time, with the limited observations I have bad, to give anything that will be of much account towards relieving the public mind in reference to this subject, and I will therefore give my own ideas with reference tions respecting the education of undeposit Children made Orphans by the war, to be an swered by the Secretaries of School Boards.

CIRCULAR

The Governor in his annual message, urges upon the Legislature the claims of 'the poor orphans of our soldiers, who have given or shall give their lives to the country in this crisis," and expresses the pinion, "that their maintainance and odreation should be provided for by the State." Of the justice of this claim no one for an instant can doubt. The first step toward carrying out this humanesuggestion of his Excellency, is to ascertain the number of such children in the State.

This can best be accomplished by the officers of the school boards, in the several counties and cities. It will be an act of benevelence that will result in good to those who have been made widows and orphans by the war. You are, therefore, requested to forward to this Department answers to the following questions, viz:

Was ripening for the skies; And when, at last, the feath stroke came-So swift, so sure, so true. The hearts that held her here to first;

Were almost broken, too. We rebed her in a pure white dress, We amouthed her soft black hair, And there our last fund hiss impressed,

Then laid ber in the silent grave : We each took up the broken thread Of life and all its cares.

How sad the heart 'mid daily tasks, We miss our Mother's prayers. We ne'er shall know from what dark paths They may have kept our feet;

Yet holy will their influence be While each fond heart shall beat; And as we tread the thorny way, Which her dear feet have tred, Ever shall feel our mothers prayer,

And for the ones still left to us-Our father, and friends so dear :-Who hears perhaps by night and day The old familiar prayer. We'll gather closer round them now, To guard from every ill,

As near the darksome river side. They wait a higher will. And when the storms of sorrow rice
