Miscellaneous.

AN UNCALLED FOR AMEN.—A correspondent of the Methodist Protestant relates the following story, which is too good to de lost:

"A very sensitive preacher in a certain village, not more than a hundred miles from Baltimore, was discoursing with great warmth the uncertainty of human life. To give the greater effect to his remarks, after assuring his hearers that they might die before an hour elapsed, he said, 'And I, your speaker, may be dead before another morning dawns.'

"'Amen!' was the audible response of a pious and much beloved brother in the congregation. The preacher was evidently disconcerted for a moment. He thought the brother misunderstood his meaning. Pausing a while, he repeated the declaration, 'before another hour your speaker may be in eternity!' 'Amen!' again shouted the brother before him.

It was too much for the sensitive man; and stammering out a few additional remarks, he sat down before he had near finished his dicourse.

"'Brother——,' said the preacher next day, to his kind hearted friend of the amen corner, 'what did you mean by saying Amen to my remarks last night. Do you wish I was dead?

"'Not at all,' said the good brother, 'not at all. I thought that if you should die, you would go straight to glory and I meant amen to that!'"

A FABLE.—Two friends, setting out together upon a journey which led through a dangerous forest mutually promised to assist each other, if they should happen to be assaulted. They had not proceeded far, before they perceived a bear making towards them with great rage. There were no hopes in flight, but one of them being very active, sprang up into a tree, upon which the other throwing himself flat on the ground, held his breath, and pretended to be dead; remembering to have heard it asserted, that this creature will not prey upon a dead carcass. The bear came up, and after smelling of him some time, went on. When he was fairly out of sight and hearing, the hero from the tree called out—Well, my friend, what said the bear? He seemed to whisper you very closely. He did so, replied the other, and gave me this good piece of advice: never to associate with a wretch, who in the hour of danger will desert his friend.

REFLECTIONS ON A TOAD.—Poor pedants that we are, so much better read in books than in nature, what a shame it is that we have not been taught to interpret the wonders that are all around us! How few of our best scholars can tell of the stone of the ravine, the flowers in the meadow, the insects upon the bushes, and the birds in the trees! In the arbor where I read I have a pet tree-toad, who is perched on a joist under the eaves, and who seems to look down upon me with something of the same wonder that I bestow upon him.—Undoubtedly some learned man has spent years upon the study of this creature's history and habits; yet he is a mystery to me, probably far more than I am to him. I only know that he makes a strange noise, and have an idea that he lives by catching flies. He is content to turn his funny eye at me once in a while, satisfied that the great lump in the chair is not hostile, and that the rustling thing in his hand is not anything unfriendly to tree-toads or their trade. In one essential of the highest philosophy he is decidedly superior to our own race—he is content to fill his own place, and not desirous to be what God never meant him for!—O! little tree-toad, how would the world be regenerated if thy unconscious instinct could urge its wisdom upon our restless humanity!—Rev. Samuel Osgood.

WHAT SAND IS.—Sand is rock, and other hard substances, reduced into powder of various degrees of coarseness. There was, therefore, no sand in chaos. While the earth was still without form and void, the materials of which sand is composed had not assumed their present peculiar character, for sand is a highly-manufactured article, and requires time for its production. A bran new planet can no more have sands (unless ready made) spread over it than a new park can be adorned with symmetrical avenues of old stagheaded oak trees.—Allowing, then, for the small proportion of sand which the winds, the rains and the rivers have ground out for us, what an old established concern the ocean wavemill must be, to have pounded thus finely for us the immense quantity of sand which we have in the world!—Dickens.

——A lock of Washington's hair was sold at the Philadelphia Fair for $20. It is said that Garibaldi exhausted two matresses in sending locks of his hair to fair aplicants, while he was in England recently.

☞A case of transfusing animal blood into a human subject was practiced in Leipsic lately, with success. Twelve ounces from the veins of a living lamb were injected with benefit into a patient of the hospital in that city.

——The keeper of a liquor saloon, at Springfield, Ohio, was lately chopped up into small pieces by two of his drunken customers.

Tremendous Victory.
GREATEST BATTLE ON RECORD!
15,000 Killed and Wounded, and 30,000 taken Prisoners!
WITH CAMP EQUIPAGE--AND
70,000 Contrabands freed from the
BONDS OF SLAVERY!!

EVERY man that has read any thing of the past history of this WAR must finally come to the conclusion that the Confederate Government would be broken down. It was only a question of time. But now we have the above Glorious soul-stirring news to cheer us up; and the only draw-back to our joy and glorification is the imminent danger of the Contrabands coming North to "eat out our substance," and to wear out our shoes! But of one thing the people of Clearfield county may be assured, and that is, that FRANK SHORT—for short called Short-ee—is selling Boots & shoes as cheap as any other man in the county; and if you don't believe it, just give him a call on court-week, or at any other time, and see for yourselves. He would just remind the public that his shop is now on Market street, in Shaw's Row—where you will find him just as Short as usual—if not a little shorter—of Cash than he would like to be.

All kinds of work on hands and made to order on short notice, and as well made, and as good fits as can be "skeered" up here or elsewhere.

☞ Don't forget the shop—on Market street, in Shaw's Row, directly opposite Rev. H. B. Swoope's office. F. SHORT.
Clearfield, June 11, 1862.

Bulkley's Patent.
Lumber Dried by Superheated Steam.
THE undersigned respectfully informs the people of Clearfield and the adjoining counties that he has the agency of the above Patent, and will sell Individual, County and Township rights for its use. The Lumber dried by this process is stronger, finishes better, i easier on tools, and requires less time in drying than any other process known—and drying 1 inch lumber perfectly in 36 hours, and better than many months under the old system—using the same amount of fuel per day that a coommon kiln consumes. The certificates of a number of resident mechanics, well known in this community, is amply sufficient to convince the most skeptical of its practical utility. Persons desirous of purchasing rights will address

DANIEL CONNELLY begs leave to inform his friends, and the citizens of Clearfield and vicinity generally, that he has taken the shop lately occupied by George Newson, in Shaw's Row, where he intends to be ready at all times to wait upon those who may favor him with their custom.
He will guarantee his work to be as well executed as can be made elsewhere, and at reasonable prices. He is bound to win the opinion of all who walk in shoe-leather—whether male or female—and all he asks is a fair trial.
Clearfield, July 8, 1863.
