

WEDNESDAY MORNING APRIL 26, 1865.

THE NEW PRESIDENT.

We publish elsewhere the account of the installation of Vice President Johnson as President, embracing a few brief remarks made by him on that occasion, and also a copy of an address delivered to a delegation of citizens of Illinois a day or two subsequent.

As all minds are anxiously inquiring what the policy of the new President is likely to be, every syllable that escapes his lips has a special importance, and is weighed with the utmost exactness. The more conservative portion of the adherents of the late President, backed by the whole Democratic party, desire that the lenient and humane policy towards the confederates and their leaders, adopted by Mr. Lincoln a few days before his death, may be pursued by his successor; while the more radical portion of them desire him to adopt a more stringent and rigorous policy.

President Johnson is a man in whom the country ought to have great confidence. We see no reason why his patriotism should be doubted. Being a Southern man in every sense of the word, he deserves much more credit for opposing secession than if his life had been spent in the North.

Inauguration of President Johnson.

On Saturday morning, the 15th inst., Attorney-General Speed waited upon Hon. Andrew Johnson, Vice-President of the United States, and officially informed him of the sudden and unexpected decease of President Lincoln, and stated that an early hour might be appointed for the inauguration of his successor.

WASHINGTON CITY, April 15, 1865. Sir:—Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States, was shot by an assassin last evening at Ford's Theatre, in this city, and died at the hour of 7:22 o'clock.

YOUR OBLIGED SERVANTS. HUGH McCULLOCH, Sec. of Treasury. E. M. STANTON, Secretary of War. J. P. USHER, Secretary of the Interior.

Mr. Johnson requested that the ceremonies take place at his rooms at the Kirkwood House, in Washington, at ten o'clock on the morning of the 15th.

At the above named hour the following gentlemen assembled in the Vice President's room to participate in the ceremony: Hon. Salmon P. Chase; the Hon. Hugh McCulloch, Secretary of the Treasury; Mr. Attorney-General Speed; F. P. Blair, Sr.; the Hon. Montgomery Blair; Senators Foot of Vermont, Yates of Illinois, Ramsey of Minnesota, Stewart of Nevada, Hale of New Hampshire, and Gen. Farnsworth of Illinois.

After the presentation of the above letter, the Chief Justice administered the following oath to Mr. Johnson: "I do solemnly swear that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States, and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States."

At the conclusion of the above remarks the President received the kind wishes of the friends by whom he was surrounded. A few moments were devoted to conversation. All were deeply impressed with the solemnity of the occasion, and the recent sad occurrence that caused the necessity for the speedy inauguration of the President was gravely discussed.

Another speech of President Johnson.—On Tuesday a large delegation of the citizens of Illinois called upon President Johnson, at his rooms in the Treasury buildings, when Gov. Oglesby, of that State, addressed him in their behalf, to which President Johnson made the following important response:—Gentlemen: I have listened with profound emotion to the kind words you have addressed to me.

kind assurance of confidence, would be to receive them in silence. [Sensation.] The throbbing of my heart since that sad catastrophe which has appalled us cannot be reduced to words; and oppressed as I am with the new and great responsibility which has devolved upon me, and saddened with grief, I can with difficulty respond to you all.

TO AN INDIVIDUAL LIKE MYSELF, who has never claimed much, but who has, it is true, received from a generous people many marks of trust and honor for a long time, an occasion like this and a manifestation of public feeling so well timed are peculiarly acceptable.

ROUGH WEATHER.—Sunday last would have done no discredit to December. Snow squalls were the order of the day, with the atmosphere just as cold as it dare be not to freeze.

MARRIED.—On the 15th instant, by the Rev. W. M. Burchfield, Mr. Wm. P. Mays, of Knox township, to Miss Sarah Graham, of Lawrence township.

DIED.—On the 16th instant, Miss Lucy Draucker, of Brady twp., aged 13 years, 7 mos. and 24 days.

against all foes and punish treason. [Applause.] In the dealings of an inscrutable Providence, and by the operation of the Constitution, I have been thrown unexpectedly into this position.

THE MEMBERS introduced to the President by Gov. Oglesby. Directly after the above interview had terminated, the members of the Christian Commission, temporarily residing in Washington, also called upon President Johnson, when an impressive address was delivered by Rev. Mr. Border, of Albany.
