the same world requires thousands and tens of thousands of silver fount ains and gently flowing rivulets, that water every farm, and meadow, and every garden, and that shall flow on, every day and night, with their gen tle, quiet beauty. So with the acts of our lives. It is not by great deeds like those of the martyrs that good is to be done, but by the daily and quiet virtues of life, the Christian temper the good qualities of relatives an

LITTLE THINGS .- Springs are little things, but they are sources of large streams; a holm is a little thing, but it governs the course of a ship; a bridle-bit is a little thing, but see its use and powers; nails and pegs are little things, but they hold the parts of large buildings together; a word, a look, a smile, a frown, are all little things, but powerful for good or evil. Think of this, and mind the little things. Pay that little debt; it is a promise, redeem it—it is a shilling, hand it over; you know not what important over; you know not what important events hang upon it. Keep your word sacredly—keep it to children; they will mark it sooner than any one else; and the effects will probably be as lasting as life. Mind the little things! A little thoughtful attention, how happy it makes the old! They have outlived most of the friends of their early youth. How lonely their hours Often their partners in life bave long filled silent graves; often their child ren they have followed to the tomb. They stand solitary, bending on their staff, waiting till the same call shall reach them. How often they must think of absent lamented faces; of the love which cherished them, and their tears of sympathy that fell with theirs, now all gone! Why should not the young cling around and comfort them, sheering their gloom with songs and happy smiles?

Faith enables us to see our friends depart without marmaring, and to business con meet our own disolution with resignation and hope. But when the forces of ambition cbb out of a man's consciences, when hope dies out of life, when love decays within him, the main-spring of his being is broken, and General Merchandise and Lumber, desolation takes possession of his soul. Flowers grow and bloom over his grave of hope and affection in the Clearfield county, Pa. 120 12. 12. heart nothing green will grow. The ashes of the immortal children of the heart are watched by angels who will keep them sacred until the deathless spark that sleeps within them, fanned by the breath of God, shall flame forth in purer lustre.

We read that when the Lord deseended on Mount Sinia, "there were thunders and lightnings, and a thick cloud upon the mount, and the voice of the trumpet exceedingly loud, so that all the people that were in the camp trembled. But when Jesus came, all was levliness and peace. A beautiful star shone forth to show the place where the Saviour of the world was lying, a little babe. When the law was given it was said, "Charge the people"-keep them at a distance -"lest they break through unto the Lord to gaze, and many of them per-But when Jesus appeared, the star invited men to come near.

Is SIN A LITTLE THING !- Turn to the cross of Calvary, to that august and awful spectacle on which angels, suspending their songs, are gazing in silent wonder. By that bloody tree, under the frowning sky, the earth trembling beneath our feet and the sun darkened above our heads, does sin seem a light and little thing? In God's words to Enckial, while pointing to that cross, I ask: "Hast thou seen this, O son of man? Is it a light thing to the house of Judah, that they commit the abominations which they commit here I"

"If we survey with care and candor the present wealth of the world-I mean its wealth intellectual, moral, and spiritual-we find that Christianity has not only contributed to the patrimony of men its brightest and most precious jewels, but has likewise been what the Saviour pronounced it, the salt or preserving principle of all the residue, and has maintained its health, so far as it has been maintained at all, against corrupting agencies."

There is a place and there is a duty for every one. No one need he an idler, a mere tollower of the camp. God wants faithful followers to form his aggressive host for the suppres sion of the fearful rebellion which threatens his kingdom. The profession of loyalty to him is not for holdiday effect, but for true and hearty chasing elsewhere.

The times are hard; you'd like to come How you may save your Dellars; The way to do it I will show, If you will read what follows. A man who lived not far from here, Who worked hard at his trade, But had a household to support, That squandered all he made.

I mot him once, ears he, "my friend, Thosh threadbare and rough; I've tried to get myself a suit, But can't save up enough." Says I, my friend, how much have you?
I'll tell you where to go,
To get a suit that's sound and cheap—
At REIZENSTEING'S and Co. He took what little he had saved, And went to Reizenstein & Brothers',

And there he got a handsome su For half he paid to others. Now he is home, he looks so well;
And their effect is such.
That when they take their daily meals,
They don't cut half so much. And now he finds on Saturday night With all their wants supplied; That he has money left to spend, And some to lay aside.

His good success, with cherrful smile,
He giadly tells to all;
If you'd save Money, go and buy,
Your clothes at Retzenstein Clothing Hall. Where the cheapest, finest and best Clothleg and good Furnishing Goods can be had to suit except taste, and an every style. April 11, 1866-17
