Meligious Miscellany.

No NIGHT THERE-

Beams on the night!

Here there is darkness,
Here there is gloon,
Sorrow and eighing.
Death and the tomb,
There ever reigneth
Day without night;
Oriet cannot enter,
Death cannot blight

To whom it is doe;

To living fountains
Led by the lamb,
Alpha, Occass.
The boundless I am;
On His face gazing, No night of weariness, No night of sin: How my soul longeth That day to begin? Day everlasting, God in its light; Tearless for aye— How my heart boundeth At thought of that day!

It is the little things of the hour, and not the Professional & Business Cards. great things of the age, that fill up a life like that of Paul and John, like that of Rutherford, or Brainerd, or Martyn. Little words, not eloquent miracles, nor battles, nor one great he roic act or mighty martyrdom, make next or mighty martyrdom. up the true Christian life. The little constant sunbeam, not the lighting; the waters of Siloah, "that go softly' in their meek mission of refreshment, not "the waters of the river great and mighty," rushing down in torrent noise, and force, are the true symbols of a hely life. The social ways wall ACF of a holy life. The avoidance of little evils, little sins, little inconsistencies, little weaknesses, little follies, little indiscretions and imprudences, little foibles, little indulgences of self and of the flesh, little acts of indolence or indecision, or slovliness or cowardice, little equivocations or aberrations from Office high integrity, little touches of shabbiness and meanness, little bits of covetousness penuriousness, little exhibitions of worldliness and gayety, littemper or crossness or selfishness or vanity; the evidence of such little things as these goes far to make up at least the negative beauty of a holy life. And then attention to the little duties of the day and hour, in public transactions, or private dealings, or family arrangements; to little words, and tones; little benevolences, or forbearances, or tendernesses; little selfdenials, and self-restraints, and selfforgetfulness; little plans of quiet kindness and thoughtful consideration for others; to punctuality, and method, and true aim, in the ordering of each day—these are the active devel-opements of a holy life, the rich and divine mosines of which it is composed. What makes your green hill so beautiful? Not the outstanding peak or stately elm, but the bright sward which clothes its slopes, composed of Innumerable blades of slendor grass. It is of small things that a great life is made up; and he who will acknowledge no life as great, save that which is built up of great things, will find little in Bible characters to admire or

Mode of Reproof. -Some persons pride themselves on being blunt, or, as they call it, "honest';" but very blunt people do little good to others, get little love to themselves. The Scriptures recommend gentleness and kindness. Reproof should fall like the dew, and not like the rushing bailstorm. The oil insinuates itself; the stone wounds ians should take heed of getting fond of the work of "rebuking." Such "spir-tunl constable."

They LICE are in a Church what a very witty and sareastic person is in society, or what a tell-tale is in school; and approximate very closely to that class which the apostle terms "Busybodies in other men's matters." Our manner must be tender and winning. The nail of reproof, says an old writer, must be well oiled in kindness before it is driven home. Meddling with the faults of others is like attempting to Thomas H. Forces.
move a person afflicted with the rhenmatie gout-it must be done slowly and tenderly, nor must we be frightened by an outery or two. The great thing is to show the person that you really love him; and if you manifest this in the sight of God he will bless your efforts, and give you favor in the sight of an erring brother.

CANDOR.-There is nothing sheds so fine a light upon the human mind as candor. It was called whiteness by the ancients to denote its purity; and it has always won the esteem due to whose opinions make the deepest impression upon his fellow man, whose influence is most lasting and efficient. whose friendship is instinctively sought where all others have proved faithless, is not the man of brilliant parts, or flattering tongue, or splen-did genius, but he whose lucid candor ingenious truth transmit the heart's real feelings pure and without refraction. There are other qualities which are more showy, and other traits that have a higher place in the world's code of honor, but none wear better or gather less tarnish by use, or claim deeper homage in that silent reverence which mind pays to virtue.

ACCEPTANCE OF ONE'S LOT.-Persovere in earnestly striving to conquer in yourself the annoyance little daily vexations cause you; turn all your attentions to this point for the present; feel only at this moment God only requires this of you; do not sow the seeds of good desires in the gardens of others, but cultivate well your own. Do not desire to be what you are not, but rather desire to be well what you are; turn your thoughts to perfecting yourself thus, and to bearing the cross-es, be they great or small, which you may therein encounter.

A WISE Excuse —On one occasion, at a dinner at the Bishop of Chester's, Hannah More urged Dr. Johnson to take a little wine. He replied: "I can't drink a little, child, and therefore, I never touch it. Abstinence is as casy to me as temperance would be difficult."
