THE REPUBLICAN.

The Registry Act.

The decision of the Supreme Court against the constitutionality of the Registry Act, was rendered after a patient hearing and investigation. Not the slightest effort has been made by the Radical Press to controvert the legal positions of the court, but the usual weapon in the Radical arsenal, vituperation, has been most industriously employed The reputation of such judges as Thompson, Sharswood and Strong, for probity and learning, requires no vindication in Pennsylvania, and the assaults made upon them will prove as harmless as they are malignant. Whilst we are rejoiced that the court has nullified this most unrighteous act, we are far from impugning the motives of the learned judges, Read and Agnew, who dissented from the views of the majority.

In no manner has Radicalism manifested itself more dangerously than in its growing contempt for the solemn opinions of the judiciary. The recent history of our State and of the entire country, is full of instances of this spirit. Let a decision be rendered against them, and the most violent personal abuse of the judges is at once resorted to. The Supreme Court of the United States has been repeatedly insulted, and menaced by the Radicals in Congress on the bare suspicions that the Court would decide against the constitutionality of the Reconstruction acts, and this very suspicion grew out of the fact that they, themselves, knew the act to be unconstitutional. From the moment when the Radicals observed that Chief Justice Chase could not be bent to their purposes in the impeachment of the President, they have not ceased to overwhelm him with calumny and detraction. The same spirit prevades the entire party, and its most recent manifestation has been witnessed in the reception of the decision against the Registry Act. The truth is, that many of the leading Radicals deny the right of the Supreme Court to interfere with the Legislature, and there is real danger that if Radicalism be confirmed in power in Pennsylvania, with its horror of regulated, constitutional law, it will destroy the State judiciary as the Radicals in Congress attempted with the Supreme Court of the United States. There is a reason for this. The Radical party has been employed for the last two years, in substituting the rule of the sword for constitutional law in ten States of the Union. They have openly proclaimed that their legislation is "outside the constitution," but necessary for "reconstruction." They have denied the right in the Supreme Court of the United States to interfere with their plans of "reconstruction" and have threatened to cripple the power of the Court. They have organized it and reorganized it again, solely with the view of obtaining a decision. It is not to be expected, then, that a press, which has been occupied so long in apologizing for tyranny and misrule; which is to-day defending an oppression unknown elsewhere in the civilized world, can have any very elevated notions of constitutional law, or reverence for the learned judges who interpret it.

The Supreme Court of Pennsylvania decided the registry law void, because it set up tests and qualifications for suffrage repugnant to the plain provisions of the Constitution.

This act requires ten days' residence to be admitted to registration, and the registration must be ten days before the election.

The Constitution requires of the voter, otherwise qualified, only ten days' residence.

The witness produced by the claimant must swear to a ten days' residence in the district before the election. How can the witness know the claimant is a ten days' resident, when the period has not commenced to run? Claimant may be next day in another "division," looking up a new witness.

The act requires a person removing into the State, or a returned citizen, to produce a witness ten days before the election, that he has been for one year a resident of the State, or has returned within six months; requiring a residence of one year and ten days in the first case, and six months and ten days in the other.

This is, to the extent of ten days, a longer residence than the Constitution requires.

The act requires of the naturalized citizen, besides producing witness, that he shall exhibit his naturalization papers before the board, at least ten days before the election.

If he should receive his papers on the ninth day before the election, he of course, could not register, and would be deprived of his vote. Under the Constitution he would be entitled to vote if he received his papers on the day of the election.

The son who came to this country a minor, and votes on his father's papers, is subjected to a like deprivation of rights.

The act requires a person voting on age to produce a witness to his qualification. His right to vote may have been consummated on election day. He must under this law, be registered ten days before election, and have his witness with him.

It was the clear intent of the simple, easily understood provisions of the Constitution, to make the suffrage as free as possible to the citizen.

This act surrounds the right with trammels, delays and expenses.

The voter must produce a witness before the board, and this may be expensive.

The board may be convened at a great distance from his residence, making his attendance expensive.

He may be required to attend one, two, or three days before completing his necessary proofs, and this is burthensom and vexation to the citizen.

There are many more matters in this act requiring attention at another time; but we have endeavored to present briefly some of the points in the luminous argument of Judge Thompson. We should like to witness a temperate review of them, instead of a passionate tirade of abuse. It is much easier to calumniate the man, than to answer the propositions of the judge.—Harrisburg Patriot.
