THE REPUBLICAN.

CLEARFIELD, PA.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, NOV. 10, 1869.

WONDERS OF THE UNIVERSE.

The stars are the landmarks of the universe; and amid the endless and complicated fluctuations of our system, seem placed by their Creator as guides and records, not merely to elevate our minds by the contemplation of what is vast, but to teach us to direct our actions by reference to what is immutable, in his works.

By the observations of the relative situations of the stars, we are enabled to determine our days and years with the utmost accuracy. The stars are our most perfect chronometers. We have, by their assistance, measured the circumference of our globe, and determined the positions of all places on its surface.

The quantity of light emitted by many of the fixed stars, proves that they must be situated at immense distances from our system. By the experiments of Dr. Wallaston, it has been found that the light of the sun is equal to eight hundred thousand full moons, and about twenty millions of millions of times greater than that of Sirius, the brightest of the fixed stars.

According to the computations of Sir William Herschel, there are stars so distant, that light, which travels at the rate of 200,000 miles in a second, would require 13,000 years to travel from those stars to our earth. Hence it follows, that if such a star were to be at this moment extinguished, the inhabitants of the earth would continue to see the stars for 13,000 years to come.

Such contemplations are sufficient to overwhelm us. The question arises, "for what purposes were all these luminaries created?" "Surely," says Sir William Herschel, "not to illume our nights, which an additional moon of the thousandth part the size of our own world would do much better; nor to sparkle as a pageant, void of meaning and reality, and bewilder us among vain conjectures. Useful, it is true, they are to man as points of exact and permanent reference; but he must have studied astronomy to little purpose who can suppose man to be the only object of his Creator's care, or does not see, in the vast and wonderful apparatus around us, provision for other races of animated beings."

The Romance of Husking Corn.

Honesty—and all rural proclivities apart—I do not think that husking corn is very likely to promote the flow of the tender sentiments. It is simply—hard work; especially when we come to count up a score or two of husks. It is another instance in which the printed pastoral is far more attractive than the actual pastoral. A gloomy old barn, with blithe sunlight pouring in and lighting up the cobwebs and flashing in the golden locks of Joan, who wears striped brocade and sits magnetically near you, might make the work tolerable. But with half a hundred of damp shocks standing away in an angle of the cornfield, with a biting northwestern whistling among them—fingers benumbed, a thumb worn bare by its wrestle with the rasping husks, and Joan (if she be there at all) sitting on a cow-stool, and with nose pinched fearfully by the October chillness—the affair wears quite another aspect. The realists, if they venture upon the subject, may rely upon these latter data as correct. What, too, if Joan be red nosed and ugly? She may not make a fine figure in a cornfield or in picture; but even ugly Joan may so illume that home of hers with smiles, with cheery activity, with delicate and unflagging attention to all home interests, as to make an atmosphere about her in which she moves transfigured, and seems even as beautiful as the morning. Lovers think themselves wise; but in reality they are as blind as bats, and have no conception of the devotion and self sacrifice of which a true woman is capable.—Ik Marvel.

A Maiden's "Psalm of Life."

Tell us not in idle jingle, "marriage is but an empty dream," for the girl is dead that's single, and things are not what they seem. Life is real, life is earnest, single blessedness a fib; "Man thou art, to man returnest," has been spoken of the rib. Not enjoyment and not sorrow is our destined end or way, but to act that each to-morrow, finds us nearer marriage day. Life is long and youth is fleeting, and our hearts, though light and gay, still like pleasant drums, are beating wedding marches all the way. In the world's broad field of battle, in the bivouac of life, be not like the dumb driven cattle—be a heroine—be a wife. Trust no future, howe'er pleasant, let the dead past bury its dead! act, act to the living present! heart within and hope ahead. Lives of married folks remind us we can live our lives as well, and departing leave behind us such examples as will "tell." Such examples that another, wasting time in idle sport, a forlorn, unmarried brother, seeing shall take heart and court. Let us, then, be up and doing, with a heart on triumph set; still contriving, still pursuing, and each one a husband get.

GEN. LEE'S COURTESY.—A correspondent of the New York Journal of Commerce, writing from the Virginia White Sulphur Springs, devotes a paragraph to Gen. R. E. Lee, and adds that the General seems especially anxious to heal the wounds of the war.—The correspondent says:

"Several ladies who were on a visit here at one time this season from a Northern State appeared to be without attention from their fellow-boarders. Gen. Lee observed the fact, and desired some of his lady friends to cultivate their acquaintance. When these excused themselves on the ground that they did not know their names; and were without introduction, the General approached several of these visitors, saying to each, 'I am Mr. Lee —may I ask your name?' And when this was given, he promptly presented them to his friends, who received them most cordially."

A lady went out with her little girl and boy, and purchased the latter a rubber balloon, which escaped him and went up into the air. The girl, seeing the tears in his eyes said, "Never mind, Neddie, when you die and go to heaven, you'll get it."

Pride never shows itself more disgustingly than in the pomp of a plan-tral.—Josh Billings.

MARK TWAIN AT SEA.

By some happy fortune I was not sea sick. That was a thing to be proud of. If there was one thing in the world that will make a man peculiarly and insufferably self conceited, it is to have his stomach behave itself, the first day at sea, when nearly all his comrades are sea sick. Soon a venerable fossil, shawled to the chin and bandaged like a mummy, appeared at the door of the after deck house, and the next lurch of the ship shot him into my arms. I said:

"Good morning, sir. It is a fine day."

He put his hand on his stomach and said, "Oh, my!" and then staggered away and fell over the coop of a sky light.

Presently another old gentleman was projected from the same door, with great violence. I said:

"Calm yourself, sir—there is no hurry. It is a fine day, sir."

He, also, put his hand on his stomach, and said, "Oh, my!" and reeled away.

In a little while another veteran was discharged abruptly from the same door, clawing at the air for a saving support. I said:

"Good morning, sir. It is a fine day for pleasure. You were about to say,"

"Oh, my!"

I thought so. I anticipated him, anyhow. I stayed there and was bombarded with old gentlemen for an hour perhaps; and all I got out of any of them was "Oh, my!"

I went away, then, in a thoughtful mood. I said, this is a good pleasure excursion. I like it. The passengers are not garrulous, but still they are sociable. I like those old people, but somehow they all seem to have the "Oh, my," rather bad.

I knew what was the matter with them. They were sea sick. And I was glad of it. We all like to see people sea sick, when we are not, ourselves. Playing whist by the cabin lamps when it is storming outside, is pleasant; walking the quarter deck in the moonlight is pleasant, when one is not afraid to go up there; but these are all feeble and common places compared with the joy of seeing people suffering the miseries of sea sickness.

A Strange Incident at a Funeral.

On last Saturday, in a little country church, near this city, as an humble village parson was preaching the funeral sermon of an old man, two young men passed the door of the church; one, a youth of twenty-five, proposed to go in and "see whom they were about to plant," (to use his own words.) They entered, and as they did so, the little congregation were about to take a last look at the still, pale face of the deceased, the youths joined the melancholy procession. They paused a moment at the bier, when the one who had proposed to enter the church and "see whom they were about to plant," bent down over the coffin and gave signs of the most poignant grief. He wept bitterly, and refused to leave the coffin. Some one suggested to him to pass on, when he said: "This is my father—how came he here?"

The sequel was soon told. At the beginning of the war the youth had enlisted in an Indiana regiment, and had remained in the service till the last battle. He had been mustered out, had taken employment in Maryland, and remained in that State until a few days since, when he started home to see his aged parent. En route he had stopped in the village to visit a comrade who had gone through the war with him. The two, in taking a walk, passed the church in which the funeral service of John Slayton was proceeding, and by some strange influence young Slayton had been led to enter the church, when the sight of the lifeless form gave him the first intimation that he was fatherless. The elder Slayton had moved to Ohio during the last few years of his son's absence, and had, after a lingering illness, died.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

CORN AND HOGS.—From carefully conducted experiments, by different persons, it has been ascertained that one bushel of corn will make a little ober 10 pounds of pork—gross.—Taking this result as a basis, the following deductions are made which all our farmers would do well to lay by for a convenient reference—That:

When corn costs 50 cents per bushel, pork costs 6 cents per pound.

When corn costs 66 cents per bushel, pork costs 8 cents per pound.

When corn costs $1.00 per bushel, pork costs 10 cents per pound.

When corn costs $1.25 per bushel, pork costs 12½ cents per pound.

When corn costs $1.50 per bushel, pork costs 15 cents per pound—and so on in like proportion.

And in return—

When pork sells for 10 cents per pound, it brings $1.00 per bushel in corn.

When pork sells for 12½ cents per pound, it brings $1.25 per bushel in corn.

When pork sells for 15 cents per pound, it brings $1.50 per bushel in corn.

When Mark Twain was in the Holy Land, the monks showed him the "tomb of Adam," which evoked the following gush from the supersensitive nature: "The Tomb of Adam! How touching it was, here in a land of strangers, far away from home and friends, and all who cared for me, thus to discover the grave of a blood relation—True, a distant one, but still a relation. The unerring instinct of nature thrilled at its recognition. The fountain of my filial affection was stirred to its profoundest depths, and I gave way to tumultuous emotion. I leaned upon a pillar and burst into tears. I deem it no shame to have wept over the grave of my poor dead relative. Let him who would sneer at my emotion close the volume here, for he will find little to his taste in my journeying through the Holy Land. Noble man—he did not live to see me—he did not live to see his child. And I—I—alas! I did not live to see him. Weighed down by sorrow and disappointment, he died before I was born—six thousand brief summers before I was born."

SNOOK says there is a marked difference between birds and women.—As an illustration of this he cites the fact that a bit of looking glass on a fruit tree will frighten away every bird that approaches it, while the same article would attract more fair ones than a load of cherries.

A Miss Lucy Lee advertises in a Mississippi paper that she "is of good birth and education, and is willing to marry an editor believing herself able to support one."

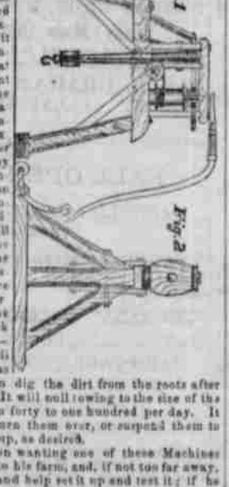
BOOTH'S IMPROVED

STUMP EXTRACTOR.



Messrs. Booth & Rumbarger, Proprietors of the Improved STUMP Extractor, wish it distinctly understood that they warrant this machine to do just what it is recommended — extracting other machines by its being constructed on true philosophical principles. It will extract the largest pine stump, sunken it above ground — permitting the soil to fall back in the hole — and will pull them as fast as ten men can dig the dirt from the roots after extracted. It will pull (owing to the size of the stumps) from forty to one hundred per day. It will either turn them over, or suspend them to be propped up, as desired.

Any person wanting one of these Machines can take it to his farm, and, if not too far away, we will go and help set it up and test it; if he is not satisfied we will take it away and charge nothing for our trouble. Machines $160, with Township Rights. Single Machines, $170.

State and County Rights for sale.

CERTIFICATE.

We, the the undersigned, having witnessed the trial of T. J. Booth's Improved Stump Extractor on the farm of R. H. Moore, near Luthersburg, on Saturday and Monday, the 7th and 9th of November, take pleasure in saying to the public, that we believe it to be the best machine now in use for extracting stumps. It is of simple construction, easily managed, not liable to get out of order, and very durable. Four men took the machine from the wagon, when entirely apart, put it together, and pulled a large pine stump in less than one hour. We saw two men pull a large stump with ease. They use a horse, but he does his work in taking out the largest stumps, without a hard pull. Mr. Booth, the Patentee, fully understands putting up and handling the machine. We would advise those in want of stump extractors to see this one tested before purchasing elsewhere, which they can do free of charge by calling on the Proprietors.

How to Save Money.

THE times are hard; you'd like to know
How you may save your dollars;
The way to do it I will show,
If you will read what follows.

A man who lived not far from here,
Who worked hard at his trade,
But had a household to support
That squandered all he made.

I met him once. Says he, "My friend,
I look thread bear and rough;
I've tried to get myself a suit,
But can't save up enough."

Says I, my friend, how much have you?
I'll tell you where to go
To get a suit that's sound and cheap:
To REIZENSTEIN & Co.

He took what little he had saved,
And went to Reizenstein & Brothers',
And there he got a handsome suit,
For half he paid to others.

Now he is home, he looks as well,
And their effect is such,
That when they take their daily meal,
They don't eat half as much.

And now he finds on Saturday night,
With all their wants supplied,
That he has money left to spend,
And some to lay aside.

His good success, with cheerful smile,
He gladly tells to all,
If you'd save money, go and buy
Your clothes at—

Democratic Almanac.

THIS invaluable publication is for sale at the post office. It should be in the hands of every Democrat. It contains full election returns from every county in the United States; besides, the number for 1866 contains a complete list of the names of all the newspapers suppressed and mobbed during Lincoln's administration; and that for 1867 contains the names of all those civilians who were imprisoned during the same period. These two lists, for future reference, are worth more than the price of the publications. The number for 1868 is also full of valuable statistics. Any one sending 50 cents to the Post Master, will receive by return mail a copy for each year, free of postage. [je24-tf

NATURE'S GREAT RESTORER.

SCHEETZ'S

Celebrated Bitter Cordial.

THIS medical preparation is now offered to the public as a reliable substitute for the many worthless compounds which now flood the market. It is purely vegetable, composed of various herbs, gathered from the great storehouse of nature, and selected with the utmost care. It is not recommended as a CURE-ALL, but by its direct and salutary influence upon the Heart, Liver, Kidneys, Lungs, Stomach and Bowels, it acts both as a preventive and cure for many of the diseases to which these organs are subject. It is a reliable Family Medicine, and can be taken by either infant or adult with the same beneficial results. It is a certain, prompt and speedy remedy for Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Bowel complaint, Dyspepsia, Lowness of Spirits, Faintings, Sickheadache, &c. For Chills and fevers of all kinds, it is far better and safer than any quinine, without any of its pernicious effects. It creates an appetite, proves a powerful digester, and will counteract the effects of liquor in a few minutes. Prepared by JACOB SCHEETZ, Sole Proprietor, N. W. cor. Fifth and Race streets, Philadelphia, Pa. Sold by all Druggists. [nov12-1y

Attention, Afflicted!

THE subscriber gives notice that he has resumed the practice of Medicine in Luthersburg, where he intends to devote his attention to the treatment of CHRONIC DISEASES in general. He will keep on hand a choice selection of DRUGS and MEDICINES adapted to the treatment of chronic diseases, and may be consulted at his office at any hour of the day.

N. B.—A word to those afflicted with chronic diseases may be to THEIR advantage. MANY MAY SOON be aware that COUNTRY Physicians who do a strictly practice have not TIME to attend to the treatment of chronic diseases, and consequently NEGLECT them; hence this class of diseases requires EXCLUSIVE attention.
