THE REPUBLICAN.

CLEARFIELD, PA.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, JAN. 12, 1870.

LIFE IS BEAUTIFUL.

Life is beautiful—its duties
Cluster round each passing day,
While their sweet and solemn voices
Warn to work, to watch, to pray;
They alone its blessing forfeit
Who by sin their spirits cheat,
Or to slothful stupor yielding,
Let the rust their armor eat.

Life is beautiful—affections
Round its roots, with order cling,
'Mid its opening blossoms nestle,
Birdlike, in its branches sing,
Smiling bid its cradle slumbers,
Guard with pride its youthful bloom,
Fondly kiss its snow-white temples,
Dew the turf-mound o'er its tomb.

Life is beautiful, with a promise
Of a joy that cannot fade;
Life is fearful, with the threatening
Of an everlasting shade.
May no thoughtless wanderer scorn it,
Blindly toss in folly's maze;
Duty, love, and hope adorn it,
Let its latest breath be praise.

CHARLOTTE TEMPLE.

Among the countless throng who daily pass and repass Trinity Church, how many know that within a few feet of the crowded thoroughfare of Broadway is a grave which covers all that remains of a once beautiful and fascinating woman, the record of whose sorrows has dimmed the eyes of thousands? No date of birth, no indication of family, and no date of death, appear on the stone that covers the grave of Charlotte Temple, whose tragic story, once the theme of every circle, is probably unknown to the greater number of young readers.—The most beautiful girl in New York—so it is claimed—she attracted the attention of a young officer, a member of one of England's oldest and proudest families, who with his regiment entered the city when the British occupied New York, after the battle of Long Island. Charlotte, then only seventeen, was wood and won by the dashing young officer. He deserted her, and then—the old story—she soon after died of a broken heart. A little daughter whom she left was tenderly cared for, at a proper age was taken to England, and a fortune of one hundred thousand dollars given her by the head of her father's family, the late Earl of Derby, grandfather of the present Lord Stanley. She, like a good daughter, and a true woman, returned to New York, and erected the monument that now marks the mother's grave. The inscription upon it was engraved on a solid tablet of brass, an inch in thickness, heavily plated with silver, and thus it read: "Sacred to the memory of Charlotte Stanley, aged nineteen years." This filial duty performed, she returned to England and lived a life of unobtrusive piety and usefulness. The plate placed upon the stone that marks the grave was supposed to be of solid silver, and tempted the cupidity of certain vandals, who, with hammer and chisels, succeeded in prying it from the slab. They were never detected.

Many years afterwards, some good Samaritan caused the simple name of Charlotte Temple to be cut underneath the excavation. There it may be seen within a few feet of Broadway, by any one who will take the trouble to look through the iron railing. The last time we glanced at the slab, now almost imbedded in the ground, we saw several sparrows taking a bathin the water which had collected in the excavation from which the villains removed the plate; and other little songsters were singing a requiem over her grave—near which we were gratified to observe a forget-me-not planted there by some kind heart who in childhood had wept over the sad and romantic story of the bereaved girl.—Appleton's Journal.

SEALED "PROPOSALS."

TO CONTRACTORS.

The undersigned, feeling the need of some one to find fault with and grumble at when business matters go wrong, and being lonely with no one to late him; and whereas, having arrived at the proper age, he is determined to "come out."

Sealed proposals will be received until 12 o'clock, P M., of the 31st of March, 1870. Applicant must possess beauty, or its equivalent in currency.

She must possess a sweet and forgiving disposition and, when one cheek is kissed, turn the other—that is, if the right man is kissing.

She may not chew gum.

Nor wear long dresses in the streets.

Nor frequent sewing circles.

Nor go around begging for charitable purposes.

Nor read the paper first in the morning.

Nor talk when I am sleepy.

Nor sleep when I am talking.

Nor trade off my clothes to wandering Jews for flower vases.

Nor borrow money from my pockets while I sleep.

Nor hold a looking glass over my face at such times to make me tell all I know.

She must believe in sudden attacks of chills, and make allowance for their effect on the nervous system.

When her "old bear" comes home from "a few friends" rather affectionate, she must not take advantage of his state, and wheedle him into trips to watering places.

All proposals must be accompanied with satisfactory evidence of the ability of the applicant to support a husband in the style to which he has been accustomed.

They had quite an interesting bridal tour in Richmond, Va., the other day. The bride and groom marched from the parsonage to jail, at the suggestion of a police officer, 'cause why, they had been stealing furniture the day before to set up housekeeping with.

A cockney physic-firm is manufacturing "Patent breast milk!" With the aid of "switches," false teeth, plumpers, cotton bosoms, bran calves, whalebone, wire and gutta percha, the genuine Woman may be finally dispensed with.

Josh Billings says—"Some people say Love is blind—but I know lots of fellows who can see a darned sight more in their gals than I can."

PROGRESS AND LIBERTY.

In contemplating the advance of the age in material improvements, in the discoveries of science and the embellishments of art, we are too prone to forget that all these things do not necessarily contribute to the enchantment of human happiness. Properly directed, the amelioration of our physical condition should lead to better and pleasanter lives on Earth; but that such direction is not the inseparable concomitant of improved processes and fresh inventions, the statistics of civilized communities very sadly prove.

What some people term the "spirit of the age," looks very much like the spread of sheer license, the rapid enfranchisement of the evil passions, and the breaking down of all law, human and divine. Parental authority; the scantity of wedlock; reciprocal duty between man and man; reverence for age—in fine, all those exalted sentiments which, hitherto, have been the rule and pride of governmental wisdom, are becoming less and less observed, and caprice, fashion, the will and example of the strongest and most fortunate, are rapidly superceding all the old time-honored ideas of the past.

Dignitaries, in high places, ministers of the gospel, the so called leaders of society, now unblushingly and even defiantly lend their aid and countenance to this work of disorganization, and dishonesty, bloodshed, perjury, the disruption of families and nations, signalized by debauchery and dishonesty of all kinds, are the result. Dungeons and gibbets multiply, and the hungry throng of placemen, subsisting by the miseries and crime of their fellow-creatures, hourly spreads, like a swarm of locusts, devouring and not producing, over the whole land.

"By their fruits ye shall know them," was the olden precept of Divine wisdom, distinguishing evil from good influences.

Obeying that rule, what must we perforce conclude, in reference to the present status of civilization in many regions of the Globe? Can this harvest of bitterness be the product of pure seed? Or, are we troubled, because the enemy has been sowing tares in our wheat-field over night?—Are we normally wrong in our system of organization, or are we simply suffering our negligence in tolerating so many blind guides and false prophets, because they are loud and bold?

At all events, we cannot maintain the claim that this is a condition of things betokening true liberty and progress, which puts us back to the utter lawlessness on the one hand, and the violent repression on the other, which characterized barbarious epochs.

To us, we submit, real progress means the nearer and nearer approach to the recognition of those principles of personal self-government, which culminate in the Golden Rule, and real liberty will be ours only when that rule shall have been universally recognized.

What are our leaders and teachers, then, doing to hasten this millenial period? Are they preaching duty instead of right alone on the principle that the latter exists with the former only, and springs from no other source? Or are they telling the untutored multitude that the indulgence of fancy and inclination are the only laws.

If, in the hearing of the young, the ignorant and the unexperienced, institutions intend for the enlightment of the masses, daily, and with success, in obtaining adherents, assail the foundations of order, what have we to expect but anarchy and disorder at last?

Let our business men; our pastors; our fathers of families; our honest, toiling classes, look to it that fraud, corruption, domest letrenchery, and, finally, open insurrection and reign of terror and blood do not follow, to end in absolute anarchy, for which there will remain no other remedy than a despotism that will crush, not only progress and liberty, but extinguish public and private happiness.

The signs of the hour indicate that no time is to be lost in arousing to settlement of this portentous problem. Hannibal is at the gates! Let good and true men gird up their loins to go forth and repel him, once for all.—N. Y. Mercantile Journal.

The Suez Canal-An Interesting Fact-The Level of the Two Seas.

It appears from the report of a careful survey by a nautical man, published in the London Shipping Gazette, that the Suez Canal, in every respect is a great success, and is working handsomely; but the most interesting fact reported is that throughout the canal a steady current moves from the Red Sea into the Mediterranean, varying in its velocity from three knots an hour, near Suez, to a knot and a half at the Mediterranean outlet. This current proves that the level of the Red Sea is higher than the level of the Mediterranean, and the question naturally recurs, if so, why? It is simply because of the tremendous evaporation of the Mediterranean.—This great inland sea is fed from the east by the powerful current of the Bosphorus and the Dardanelles from the Black Sea, and from the Atlantic Ocean in the West through the Straits of Gibraltar, and by numerous rivers on both sides, and yet the hot and thirsty winds which sweep across it from the great desert of Africa keep it down by evaporation below the general ocean level. The evaporation from the Red Sea per square mile, with a roasting desert on each side, and nearer the equator, is immensely greater than that from the Mediterranean; but as the Red Sea is only a narrow gulf running up from the Indian Ocean, its aggregate loss is comparatively small and easily supplied. At its northern extremity, at Suez, therefore, it is kept nearer the general level of the ocean than is the Mediterranean along the African coast.

But granting all this, what does it signify in a practical view of the Suez Canal? It signifies that the canal has become a river or an arm of the Indian Ocean flowing into the Mediterranean, and that unless this continual current be checked, the flow of this inlet will in time wash down the sandy banks of the canal into its channel and fill it up. That is what it signifies in a business point of view. If the report in question is correct (and we have no reason to doubt it,) a pair of locks will be necessary at the Suez inlet to regulate the flow from the Red Sea. Otherwise a heavy wind up this sea of several day's duration may create such a current in the canal as to choke it up with the washings from its banks in a single day or night.

A heart full of the world is a heart full of wants.

How to Save Money.
THE times are hard: you'd like to know
How you may save your dollars;
The way to do it I will show,
If you will read what follows.

A man who lived not far from here,
Who worked hard at his trade,
Had [illegible]

I met him once. Says he, "My friend,
I look thread bear and rough;
I've tried to get myself a suit,
But can't save up enough."

Says I, my friend, how much have you?
I'll tell you where to go
To get a suit that's sound and cheap:
To REIZENSTEIN & Co.

He took what little he had saved,
And went to Reizenstein & Brothers',
And there he got a handsome suit,
For half he paid to others.

Now he is home, he looks so well,
And their effect is such,
That when they take their daily meal,
They don't eat half as much.

And now he finds on Saturday night,
With all their wants supplied,
That he has money left to spend,
And some to lay aside.

His good success, with cheerful smile,
He gladly tells to all.
If you'd save money, go and buy

SHRINER'S
BALSAMIC COUGH SYRUP
Will cure the ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, BLOOD SPITTING, DIFFICULTY OF BREATHING, PAIN and WEAKNESS IN THE CHEST, TROUBLESOME COUGHING AT NIGHT, &c. It will effectually remove the Cough that frequently follows Measles, and any affection of the respiratory organs, no matter of how long standing, or whatever the age of the person. It acts as a specific, is purely vegetable, and is pleasant to the taste. Its effect is soothing, allaying the violence of the cough, facilitating expectoration, quieting the nerves and equilibrating the system.
Mothers, Save Your Children!
No child need die of CROUP, if this Syrup is used in time. This is a fact demonstrated by experience. No family should be without this Syrup, as that fatal disease, CROUP, comes like a thief in the night, to steal away your little ones, when regular medical aid cannot be obtained.

The Lightning Tamer.
THE undersigned are the sole Agents in this county for the "North American Galvanized LIGHTNING RODS." These are the only safe rods now in use, and are endorsed by all the scientific men of the country.
We hereby notify the citizens of the county that we will put them up a better rod, and for less money, than is charged by the foreign agents who annually traverse the county and carry off our little cash, never to return.
ENCOURAGE HOME LABOR.
Those wishing Lightning Rods erected on their buildings need but address us by letter, or call in person. We will put them up anywhere in the county, and warrant them. The Rods and Fixtures can be seen at any time by calling at our store. MERRELL & BIGLER.
