CLEARFIELD, PA. WEDNESDAY MORNING, JAN. 26, 1870.

THE WORN-OUT FONT OF TYPE. I'm sitting by the desk, George;

The sitting by the storm theory of the fore ine on the five out.

There lies a worn-out four of type,
Full (senty thousand score,
And many mounths have passed, George,
Since they were bright and new,
And many are the tales they told—
The false, the strange, the true.

What tales of hereor they have told,
Of tempest and of wreck;
Of marrier to the midnight hour,
Of war fell many a "Speek!"
Of ships that lest away at sea—
West slown before the blast;
Of with offers of say;

Of stiffed ories of agony
As life's last moments passed? Of earthquaker and of suleider.

Of earthquaker and of substace,
Of failing grops of cotton,
Of bank defaulters, traken banks,
And banking systems potten;
Of boilers barsting, stembouts snagged,
Of risks, duck fought,
Of takers with their prey escaped,
Of thieves their booty caught.

Or thieves their booty caught.

Of flood, and fire, and accident,
These worn-out types have told;
And how the postlience has awept.
The youthful and the old;
Of coarriages, of hirths and double;
Of things to please we cen ha;
Of one man's jumping overboard,
Another gone to Texas.

These tolds.

They've told us how sweet summer days
Have faded from our view.
How autuma's chilling winds have swept
The leaf-crowned forcet through;
How winter's snew hath gove and come—
Dark reign of sions and strifte—
And how the smilling spring hath warmed
The pale flowers back to life.

If we admit, for the sake of argument, that Mowry had no right to sign the paper, still the board was a duly organized board of district return judges. The clerks that were there selected and signed this return. The majority of the doctrines advanced then on board signed it, and more than all, the whole of the people of that district other. Out of the cloud finite of for garments shakes,
Over the woodlands brown and have,
Over the harvest fields fireakes,
Silvon, and soft, and slow

If to et and away to the collars, garrets, and over-crowded tenement homes, where people are sepoor! We see them working We see men, women, children actually starcing. We see dirty, ragged, freeing little ones affering. They are innecent of all cave poverty. Little orphans, whose mothers are dead, whose fathers are in prison or transwhose fathers are in prison, or poor, miserable victims of dissipation. Then our heart grows strong, and we are ashamed to think we would shrick our share of life's labor. see how much better off we are than are thousands upon thousands of others, and feel happy, contented, and anxious to live to a purpose, and to help the poor who have no homes. Then, we think how good and kind our friends are-how much better off than we might be-how we are blossed with health, and enough to keep want from the door, and how little we do, to make the homeless ones better off and happier.

Then we rest awhile where our heart is-gather strength for the work of life, and continue on as we have begun, in hope that some day there may not be in our country so many poor little homeless starving children so many heart-broken sufferers as there are all over the land this Saturday Night .- "Brick" Pomeroy.
