

The Republican.

GEORGE B. GOOLANDER, Editor.

CLEARFIELD, PA.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, FEB. 2, 1870.

DOWNWARD.—Gen. Franz Seigle, who was so gloriously defeated in New York last fall, has just been appointed Assessor by Gen. Grant. This will be gratifying to those who fight mit Sigel."

Gen. Jack Logan is trying to move the Capitol at Washington, out West somewhere. The Grand Army Commander is a humbug, and this, like all other projects he takes hold of, will prove a failure.

ROYALTY AND LOYALTY TOGETHER.—Prince Arthur, the third son and seventh child of Queen Victoria, arrived in New York last week, and is in Washington this week, as the guest of the British Minister. A grand ball was to be given in his honor on Thursday evening, at which the wealth, beauty and aristocracy of the National Capital were present.

IN AT LAST.—Virginia, the mother of States and Statesmen, was let into the Union again last week according to loll phraseology. During the war the Radical bloodhounds denied that a State could go out of the Union. Now the same men admit that they can; thus proving themselves liars, either then or now. Radical politicians (Statesmen there are none) are as profane of wrong and falsehood as a dog is of fleas.

A LOVING POSTMASTER.—Postmaster General Creswell, has appointed a celebrated Virginia lolist, P. M., at Charlottesville, named Thomas Gordon. The Charlottesville Chronicle, pretty plainly indicates the character of the scallions who has received this mark of respect at the hands of the government authorities. The editor of the journal in question says:

"We cannot imagine a greater outrage on any community than the appointment to a position, which will bring him into necessary contact with everybody, of a man whose moral character is so utterly degraded as that of this miserable old wretch, who for years kept a negro woman as a mistress while his wife was alive and in his house, and who has just outraged all decency by making this woman his wife."

OUR BROTHERS' SUCCESSFUL.—The Legislature of Mississippi has covered itself all over with glory, in the estimation of the wise—in the abolition of slavery and its adjuncts and surroundings. We have encouraged the emigration of honest and decent men from the North to the South, and have insisted always that the latter should and would, if permitted, cheerfully co-operate in the work of reconstructing the Union and maintaining the Constitution. But it contempt for the unprincipled men who direct the course of the Radical faction; if detection of the despicable means by which they have secured the ascendancy of a Radical minority in the "ring" and one of the "roosters," of that body.

By their fruits ye shall know them.—Bellfonte Watchman. The editor of the Watchman knows whereof he speaks, as he spent two years with those gentlemen.

COLFAX RESULTS.—The Indianapolis Mirror of the 22d ult., states that "the McFarland-Richardson scandal has been slightly re-animated in this community by the appearance here of an attorney for McFarland, whose mission is to ascertain if the Morgan county divorce may not be set aside for informality, general impropriety, or something of that sort. The legal gentleman avers that McFarland, during the entire period of his wife's residence in this city, watched closely for some intimation of her intention to apply for a divorce; but as the sagacious attorney in her behalf brought the suit in another county, her husband was completely baffled, and knew nothing of the proceedings against him until the divorce had been decreed—knew nothing of it until a very short time before the shooting of Richardson, which is alleged to have been done while McFarland was laboring under temporary insanity, as perched by his great disappointment. The gentleman has not returned to New York, but has already learned that under the laws of the State the divorce cannot be set aside."

PERFECTLY CORRECT.—A nigger United States Senator has been appointed by the Legislature of Mississippi, for the short term, expiring in 1871. This nigger is a "Reverend." All niggers who learn to read and write and some, in fact, who do not, eat the white-washing and bartering professions, and take to preaching, and Senator Revels is one of this class. We congratulate Messrs. Royal and Sumner, that they can now become practical allies in the great work of Mongrelizing the country. We hope Senator Revels will stick like wax to the side of "Chawles," and suggest that he procure us adjoining desk, if possible. We opine the Honorable "Chawles" will be induced to snub the "Rev. W. H. B." but never mind, darkey; stick to him; he says you are his equal, and, as far as he and you are concerned, some people agree with him. Make him prove his belief in his professions by his practical application of the law of social equality. We hope and trust both branches of Congress will be studded full of niggers that the legislative halls will smell like dog kennels.—Day Book.

HOUSES WANTED.—The Philadelphia Age says: The Mayor of Washington has interviewed Gen. Grant on the subject of a more liberal expenditure of public money in that city. By the dispatch in another column, it appears that the President said, he had no doubt the time would come when the Cabinet ministers would be furnished with houses free of rent by the government. Considering his nice sense of propriety in such matters, it can hardly be supposed the President would at present sanction one of his Cabinet accepting a house from friends.

It is proposed to increase the number of U. S. Representatives in the House from the present figure, 237, to 300.

A Senatorial Opinion.

The Senator from Erie, Mr. Lowry, on the 25th ultimo, in his speech in the State Senate on the new county project spoke "blithely" of Gen. Harrison Allen, who, by the way helped Grant violate the fish law last summer in Elk county. Mr. Lowry said:

The Senator from Warren (Mr. Allen) has deliberately told this Senate that I never saw this new county, or if I ever saw any part of the same I saw it from the window of a railroad car. I am now fifty-six years of age. The Lord for his own wise purposes has smitten me. I have fought against such men as he is all my life. I have fought villainy and rascality. I have fought for the weak and the outraged all my life, but so consummately a bold-faced falsehood as this never was called to meet before. One moment he would have you believe I owned the whole country, and the next that I never saw it. When the Senator from Warren was a pure and uncorrupted babe in his mother's arms, I then bathed in its waters, and gathered oil upon its surface, and bled leaves and mountain berries from its banks. When the Senator from Warren was a pure and uncorrupted child in the arms of his mother, and when she had great hopes that he would grow up a pure and a useful man, and observe and not violate every commandment in the decalogue, I was familiar with all that region of country.

Mr. Chaffman, what has my enforced condition to do with the merits of this question? The Senator from Warren has said that I am an old demented man. He would inspire the Senate with more respect for himself if he would answer my arguments. Neither the Senator from Mercer, who preceded me, nor the Senator from Venango (Mr. Hong) ever attempted to gain their cause by argument, but by calumny, villainy and sharp legislative practice. There is more brains, some people might think, in the heads of the old cackled and demented Senator than there is in the head of the Senator from Warren. I wrong, I fear, the character of Christian mothers, by supposing, as I have, that the Senator had one. A monster who in a public assembly mocks God for his judgments, and makes a scornful mouth at man for being broken down, whether by the tooth of time or the storms of state, could hardly have received baptism as a Christian front, birth from a Christian mother, or tasted of the sweets of a virtuous companionship at any period of his miserable existence. The Senator from Warren (Mr. Allen) says that this Senate last year passed this bill for me because I was feeble and would be apt to be upon the verge of the grave, and now forthsooth he would have them defeat it because I yet live, and voted against Mr. Mackay, the ring candidate for State Treasurer. I might repeat the attack and be justified in so doing, but I desist. It is not always best to answer men as they deserve.

Exactly So.—We have argued, says the Baltimore Gazette, a full, patient and prompt acquiescence in the legitimate results of the war—in the abolition of slavery and all its adjuncts and surroundings. The Charlotteville Chronicle, pretty plainly indicates the character of the scallions who has received this mark of respect at the hands of the government authorities. The editor of the journal in question says:

"We cannot imagine a greater outrage on any community than the appointment to a position, which will bring him into necessary contact with everybody, of a man whose moral character is so utterly degraded as that of this miserable old wretch, who for years kept a negro woman as a mistress while his wife was alive and in his house, and who has just outraged all decency by making this woman his wife."

Let any one take up the Legislative Register of 1869, and look at the names recorded in favor of the Western Oil Pipe monopoly, the "Boiler Bill," the Bill blotting out the 29th Judicial district, the Tax Bill, the Philadelphia Police Bill, and every other outrageous and infamous measure that was before that Legislature, and you will find the names of these men, who are now made chairmen of the most important committees in the House. What other conclusion, then, can any sensible man come to, than that Speaker Strang is one of the "ring" and one of the "roosters," of that body.

Jenkins announces with a grand flourish that Mrs. Abraham Lincoln has purchased a house in Switzerland, and now dwells in peace and tranquillity "by the margin of fair Zurich's water." We are glad of it. We rejoice that she has at length found rest. She had a hard time of it, generally in this ungrateful place.
