THE REPUBLICAN.

CLEARFIELD, PA.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, FEB. 25, 1870.

ASPIRATIONS.

Our aims are all too high: we fry
To gain the summit at a bound,
When we should reach it step by step,
And climb the ladder round by round.
He who would climb the heights sublime,
Or breathe the purer air of life,
Must not expect to rest in ease,
But brace himself for toil and strife.

We should not in our blindness seek
To grasp alone for grand and great;
Disdaining every smaller good,
For trifles make the aggregate.
And if a cloud should hover o'er
Our weary pathway like a pall,
Remember God permits it there,
And his good purpose reigns o'er all.

Life should be full of earnest work,
Our hearts undashed by fortune's frown,
Let perseverence conquer fate,
And merits seize the victor's crown.
The battle is not to the strong,
The race not always to the fleet;
And he who seeks to pluck the stars
Will lose the jewels at his feet.

Yankees in a Charleston Court.

One of our subscribers, who happened to be over in Charleston the other day, tells the following:

A fellow representing a Boston bucket factory came ashore from a steamer, carrying about a dozen diminutive specimens of his merchandise, and taking up the first street he came to, offered them right and left. He had not progressed far before a negro policeman arrested and carried him before a coal-black justice, charged with peddling without license. The sable magistrate not only fined him the cool sum of $100, but roundly lectured the man for his conduct. He paid the fine and left the "court" and city in thorough disgust.

On the same day another drummer from New York was arraigned before his sable honor for the same offence. The drummer insisted that he had sold nothing, only being offering, but had made no sale. Whereupon the black dignitary told him to prove that, but while hunting up his proof he must leave $50 by way of bail. The drummer handed over the money, went out and brought in three or four merchants, who stated that he had sold nothing to them. After the witnesses got through, the following decision was delivered:

"Dis Court hab heard de prefixes and de conclusion in dis case, and decides dat de Yankee hab left the case in doubt; and it belu' de law to gib de State de benefit of de doubt, dis court will keep de fifty dollars."

These are facts.—Macon Telegraph

REVOLTING SCENE AT AN EXECUTION.—Louis Hines, a negro, was hanged at Tarboro, N. C., on Friday last. The hour having arrived, the Sheriff asked the condemned man if he had any confession to make, to which he replied that he had not. The cap was then placed over his head, forever darkening his vision to all earthly things, the noose was adjusted by the sheriff's deputy, and at 12 M. the drop fell. A scene of fearful excitement here ensued. The knot on the rope was not properly placed, and when the body fell it slipped round under the chin. The legs had not been pinioned either, and the suspended wretch struggled in a terrible manner. He had fallen about three feet and a half, and the neck was not broken. With a convulsive effort he succeeded in getting his hand up to the rope, at his throat, and holding this he got his feet again on the platform. All this time there was the greatest excitement and commotion in the small crowd within the enclosure, while those without were ignorant of the exciting scene. A gurgling noise in the throat as of difficult respiration, could be disheard by the entire crowd in the yard. The Sheriff ran and pushed the feet off the scaffold, and the condemned was again swinging in mid air, but struggling violently. In seventeen minutes, however, he was pronounced dead by Drs. J. H. Baker and Stanton, and the body was cut down and placed in a coffin. Thus ended the execution of Hines, a bungled and horrible affair, but Tarboro had its annual hanging.

HEAD TURNED AROUND.—A crazy man was found at a grindstone sharpening a large butcher knife, and every now and then examing the edge to see if it was keen.

"What are you doing here?"

"Don't you see! Sharpening this knife."

"Yes, but what are you going to do with it when sharpened?"

"Cut old Brown's head off to be sure," was the reply.

"What, you won't kill him will you?"

"Oh, no; I'll only cut his head off, and stick it right on again, hind side before, just to let the old fellow look back upon his past life. It would take him all the rest of his life to review it."

What a queer idea the lunatic had in his head? and what if it were so, that every man, when he reached a certain age, had his face turned around and was obliged to spend the rest of his days in looking over his past life? Wouldn't there be strange sights?

Parr once asked a lady what she thought of his sermon. She answered: "My opinion is expressed in the first five words of the sermon itself—'Enough, and more than enough.'" He had but little to say the remainder of that evening.

Gather up the fragments, that nothing be lost. Almost any woman can cook well, if she have plenty with which to do it, but the real science of cooking is to be able to cook a good meal or dish, with but little out of which to make it.

Mrs. Partington has been reading the health officer's weekly reports, and thinks 'total' must be an awful malignant disease since as many die of it as all the rest put together.

"What will become of you if you do not tell the truth?" asked a Boston Sundy school teacher of one of his pupils. "I'll be sent to Congress," promptly replied the lad.

When doing what is right the heart is easy, and becomes much better every day, but when deceit is practiced, the mind labors and daily gets worse.

"I am surprised, my dear, that I have never seen you blush." "The fact is, husband, I was born to blush unseen."

Married life often begins with rosewood and mahogany and ends with pine.

THIS invaluable publication is for sale at the post office. It should be in the hands of every Democrat. It contains full election returns from every county in the United States; besides, the number for 1866 contains a complete list of the names of all the newspapers suppressed and mobbed during Lincoln's administration; and that for 1867 contains the names of all those civilians who were imprisoned during the same period. These two Almanacs, for future reference, are worth more than the price of the publication. The number for 1868 is also full of valuable statistics. How to Save Money.

THE times are hard; you'd like to know
How you may save your dollars;
The way to do it I will show,
If you will read what follows.

A man who lived not far from here,
Who worked hard at his trade,
But had a household to support
That squandered all he made.

I met him once. Says he, "My friend,
I look thread bear and rough;
I've tried to get myself a suit,
But can't save up enough."

Says I, my friend, how much have you?
I'll tell you where to go
To get a suit that's sound and cheap:
To REIZENSTEIN & Co.

He took what little he had saved,
And went to Reizenstein & Brothers',
And there he got a handsome suit,
For half he paid to others.

Now he is home, he looks so well,
And their effect is seen,
That when they take their daily meal,
They don't eat half as much.

And now he finds on Saturday night,
With all their wants supplied,
That he has money left to spend,
And some to lay aside.

His good success, with cheerful smile,
He gladly tells to all.
If you'd save money, go and buy
Your clothes at—
