

SUMMER TIME.

White, light, fair, rose, some in my sweet complexion, bright and free.

Upon my bosom, fragrant rose, Thy velvet leaves their charms disclose.

Thus, to, rash apple-blossom, in Open my lap, and smile to die.

FANCY GOODS.

In the United States there is a very large and thriving trade in fine fancy goods, both of foreign and domestic growth.

This waste, and the immense yearly requirements for lumber of every description, is not accompanied with any suitable effort at replacement.

In foreign fancy woods mahogany takes the lead, because of the readiness with which it may be used for various purposes.

Most of the mahogany, rosewood, lignumvites, and other fancy woods, arriving at this port, are sold at auction in Hanover Square, or that vicinity.

WHERE THE MONEY GOES.—In 1860 the expenses of the National Government were about sixty millions;

In 1860 there was a Democratic administration—in 1870 a Radical administration.

This accounts for the vast increase. But where has the money gone?

The people have paid it into the hands of Radical collectors, and they have possibly paid it into the Treasury.

From here it has gone to support thousands of idle, worthless negroes, who are fed and clothed out of the hard earnings of the white men.

How long will this thing be sanctioned by the white class of the land? Does the General Government provide for them schools, food, clothing, and permit them to live in luxury and idleness?

He who pretends to be everybody's particular friend is nobody's.

LIGHT BREAKING IN UPON POLITICAL EGYPT.

There seems to be some light breaking in one of the darkest spots of the Southern Egypt.

And since the date of this letter, the "Mongrel State Central Committee" has issued an address, from which we cut the following extract:

"Citizens and Republicans!—After an experience of two years, under the leadership of the most dishonest and corrupt set of politicians that ever disgraced the political history of any of the States of this Union, you are now called upon to rescue the State from the hands of the political adventurers who have brought it to the verge of bankruptcy."

This, then, is the confessed result of the fatal experiment of a mixed black and white rule in Louisiana.

It is the bitter confession of the Mongrel State Central Committee itself. It is a "confession of judgment" entered by the parties' own motion.

It is a confession of judgment entered by the parties' own motion. This same party has brought not only every other Southern State to the verge of bankruptcy, but it has brought the United States to the verge of bankruptcy, but it has brought the United States to the verge of bankruptcy.

It is true, that the madmen and fools of Exeter Hall had influence enough with the government to drive it to the disgraceful deed of sweeping white suffrage away also in that Island.

That is, although negro suffrage had been the cause of impoverishing the Island and overthrowing its civilization, yet, to pacify the crazy abolitionists of Exeter Hall, the white men of Jamaica were treated like negroes, and the government of the Island transferred to distant white men in England.

Not more than two in ten, even of the Democratic politicians, seem to possess any correct information on this subject.

Drifting down on the tide of that monstrous idea, that all the types of men are one race, and can therefore be assimilated in a common civilization, they are already whirling around in the fatal millstone which has swalloped up every such attempt in a record of more than five thousand years.

The terrible lesson of history, and the irrefragable demonstrations of science, all are nothing with the ignoramus who imagines that white men, negroes, Indians, Chinese, &c., &c., may be amalgamated on a plane of equality.

Looking after the collector. The gypsies in the Hop-Garden in Feth have a curious way of looking after the honesty of their money collector.

They have a living fly put in his left hand, while he holds the plate with his right. When he returns with the funds he must bring the fly back alive, as a sign that he has not taken any money from the common property, but if the fly be wanting, or even dead, he does not get his share of the money.
