How Gold Was First Discovered in California.

We have received from Henry W. Bigler, one of the men working at Sutter's mill, in 1848, when gold was discovered there, the following interesting letter, headed as below, which is full of character, and bears internal evidence of perfect truth:

LIFE AND ADVENTURES OF JAMES W. MARSHALL.

FARMINGTON, DAVIS COUNTY, UTAH, December, 28th, 1870.—To the Editor of the San Francisco Weekly Bulletin:

DEAR SIR: The above notice I saw about three months since in the 23d No. and 15th volume of your paper, and as I am there referred to as being one of the mill hands, who, if alive, could substantiate the accuracy of the narrative, I cheerfully give my testimony, although it is at a very late hour, because I feel it is a duty I owe to Mr. Marshall, and perhaps to the public. I have not seen the work referred to, neither have I seen any person who said they had.

I was one of the men at work at Coloma at the time the gold was found by Mr. Marshall. I well remember when he sent a young Indian for James Brown to send him a plate.—Brown was on the top of a saw pit; he jumped down saying: "I wonder what Marshall wants with a tin plate?" After we had quit our day's work, Mr. Marshall came into our shanty and told us he believed he had found gold, and directed Brown and myself to shut down the head-gate early in the morning, and throw in dirt and leaves so as to completely shut of the water, which we did, while Marshall went alone down in the tail race. In a few minutes he came back with a most pleasing smile on his face carrying his old white hat in his arms, saying: "Boys, I believe I have found a gold mine." At this he sat his hat on the work-bench, that stood in the mill-yard, and the mill hands all gathered around in an instant; and there, sure enough in the top of his hat crown (the top knocked in a little) was the pure metal; how much I do not know; perhaps an ounce. One of our company by the name of Azariah Smith, pulled out a five dollar gold piece and compared the coin with the praticles. There was a difference in the looks, but this we accounted for on account of the alloy in the coin. Any of us would have been willing to have sworn and testified that what James W. Marshall had lying on the top of his old hat crown was gold although none of us had ever seen gold dust before. Some three or four days after this Marshall went down to Sutter's Fort to see about grub and to have the mineral tested. He was gone four days. When he returned, and was asked what he made out of the metal, his reply was, "Oh, boys, it is the pure stuff. I and the old captain locked ourselves up and was half a day trying it; and the outsiders wondered what in h—ll was up, and surmised that I had found a quicksilver mine, for you see there is a quicksilver mine found by a woman down towards Monterey; but we let them sweat.—We found it agreed with the encyclopedia, and we applied aquafortis, and it has nothing to do with it. We then weighed it in water by balancing the dust against silver on a pair of scales, in the air, having a basin of water. We let the scales down, and when it came in contact with the water the gold went down and the silver up (motioned if out with his hands,) and that told the story that it was clear stuff." He then said Sutter would be up in a few days to look and examine the race, &c. In a few evenings afterward Marshall came into our shanty and told us that Sutter had come; that he was up at the other house: "and now, boys," said he, "we have all got a little gold dust. I motion that we all give Henry (myself) some, and in the morning, when you shut off the water, let him (Henry) take it down and sprinkle it all over the base rock. Not let on to the old gentleman (Sutter,) and it will so excite him that he will set out his bottle and treat, for he always carries his bottle with him. So next morning early, before the old gentleman came down, we did as Marshall proposed. Just as the mill hands were finishing breakfast, we saw the old gentleman coming stubbing along with his cane in his hand (a well dressed old gentleman, too); Mr. Marshall on one side and M. Werner on the other, Sutter in the middle. As they neared our shanty we went out and met him. After shaking hands and passing the common salutations, we were all invited by Sutter and Marshall to go along and have a general time prospecting in the race.—Just at this time one of Mr. Werner's little boys, not knowing what was up, ran on ahead and picked up nearly every particle and came running back, nearly out of breath, meeting us and exclaimed, "See here, how much I have found!" having perhaps fifty dollars' worth in his hands, and we dare not say a word lest the joke would be found out and we lose our liquor. The old gentleman, as soon as he saw what the boy had, thrust his cane into the ground, saying: 'By Jo, it is rich.' However, we all went into the race and found a number of particles, and from that day forward gold began to be found in other places besides the tail-race. I advised Marshall to marry that girl who found the quicksilver mine, if she was single or not married, for, said I, if this is what the tail turns out to be, I wonder what the head will be? The life and adventures of the James W. Marshall, so far as he being the first discoverer of California gold, is all true, and he found it as you represented in your paper. If what I have written is of any use to either you or Mr. Marshall, you are at liberty to make use of it.—San Francisco Bulletin.
