A STERLING OLD POEM.

There are streams of crystal noctar
Ever flowing out of some;
There are purple heds and golden,
Hidden, crushed and everthrown.
God, who counts by souls, not dresses,
Loves and prospers you and me,
White he values thrones the highest
But as pobbles in the sea.

That intolerable young nigger, Smith, who has kept three or four court martials running since his stay at West Point in the investigation of his playful African freaks and eccentricities, is again conspicuously before the public. It seems, as we have before stated in these columns, that Smith has an unpleasant habit of battering the heads of his fellow cadets of the Caucasian race with tin dippers, pokers, broomsticks, and city of the ravailable implements of assault which turn up handy when the wrath of this martial child of Guinea chances to be roused. Should these indignities of this martial child of Guinea chances to be roused. Should these indignities be repaid in kind, as sometimes happens, Smith has, of course, a tremendous advantage over his opponents inasmuch as tinners have never fabricated a cup nor blacksmith forged a poker hard or heavy enough to impress his ponderous skull. It is builet-proof. It is a phrenological Gibralter. You might as well attempt to riddle the Jurret of a monitor with a peathe turret of a monitor with a pea-shooter as to concuss the Smith brain by pounding on the Smith skull.

The young darkey is immensely vain of this superiority over the white trash at the Foint whose heads he regards as mere egg shells which he thinks it fine sport to crack. His skull and power at butting are also remarkable. Before he went into training as a warrior he used to win grind stone cheeses on the wheat of The sea minimised masses.

The Flight of Youth.

Would anybody be young again if he had to take with it the penalty of going back and doing over again all the foolish things he was guilty of in his youth? I wouldn't.

"Give me back my youth again!" did you say? Friend, it's a mistake Ten to one you wouldn't have it again if you could. If old Time were to come boldly to you to day, saying, "Take back, O wise middle aged Noodle, these twenty past years of your die, these twenty past years of your dle, these twenty past years of your life, with all the pains and disappoint-ments which have made you clear-sighted and soundheaded, with all the silly actions you perpetrated in those days, and all the occasions on which you made a long-cared donkey of yourself; worry through a second time all the tight boots and tribulations, all the toothaches and heartaches of your youth; do, be and suffer it all again; be, in short, once more just the soft young Noodle you were twenty years ago,"—ter of manhood's hearty hopes to one dolorous wait for your lost youth that you are your

The considerable increase of the white population of the Southern States has taken place chiefly in those on the northern border of that section —in Delaware, Maryland, Kentucky and Missouri; and a dimination of the number of blacks has taken place in sisters advice which they don't want,
