TAKEN PRISONER.

On last Thursday evaning, July 27th, as Rev. W. B. Skinner was leisurely looking over his manuscript, his sanctum was invaded by a company of persons, who took him into castody, without even reading their warrant for so doing. No time for making a defense was given. Release on a writ of absence or put was impossible. He was crowned king of the seening, and forced to preside over the deliberations of the large party as they disposed of the rich delicanies provided by the invaders. After the viands were amply discussed, they took the liberty of presenting the prisoner with some of the needful, in shape of greenbacks, and after spending some time in social enjoyment the invaders dispersed, intimating a season of rest to the person in eastody.

The Paster, the recipient of the favors, returns humble thanks to the members of his congregation in Curwensville for these marks of confidence and esteem.
