There is many a rest in the road of life,
If we could only stop to take it:
And many a tone from the better land,
If the querulous heart would make it:
To the sunny soul that is full of hope,
And whose beautiful trust me'er faileth,
The grass is groen and flowers bright,
Though the winter storm prevaileth.

Better to hope the' the clouds hang low, And keep the eye still lifted, For the sweet blue sky will soon peep thro', When the ominous clouds are rifted! There was never a night without a day,
Or an evening without a morning:
And the darkest hour, as the proverb goes,
Is the hour before the dawning.

There is many a gem in the path of life, Which we pass in our idle pleasure. That is richer by far than the jeweled crown, It may be the love of a little child, Or a mother's prayer to heaven, Or only a beggar's grateful thanks For a cup of water given.

Better to wence in the web of life,
A bright and golden filling.
And to do God's will with a ready heart
And hands that are ready and willing.
Then to sump the delicate, minute threads
Of our curious lives assunder.
And thus himse heaven for the tangled ends,
And sit and grieve and wonder.

Aaron Burr.

Burr has a son living in Ohio, but such is the fact. His motherwas Miss Catharine — , at that time (1890) a well known Washington belle, who fell beneath the blandishments of the Vice President. She was noted for her beauty, refinement and wit, and after her ruin, fled mysteriously to Philadelphia. Her sudden disappearance from the gay capital created a great deal of talk; and after that event he was dead to all the world save her titled destroyer and her son. The correspondent of the Miami County Democrat, who reveals the existence of this son, says he saw his father but twice -once after his acquittal before the GOODS AT REDUCED PRICES Supreme Court of the United States, at Richmond, when he was tried for treason, the second and last time in the latter part of 1835, in New York. He was then aged, bowed to the earth with the great weight of four score years and a broken heart. Disease also racked his frame. Thirty years before his daughter had sailed from Charleston, South Carolina, to meet him, but the vessel in which she embarked was never heard from and the blow nearly crashed Burr's life. "Sir," said the old man, "although the blood to furnish all kinds of Goods of Aaron Burr runs through my veins, I detest it. I have not mentioned the old man's name. With-

RATHER DOMESTIC .- The editor of the New York Sun says: It has been proposed that President Grant should have a salary of a bundred thousand dollars a year, on the ground that twenty-five thousand is not enough to maintain the dignity of his office.

Considering how Grant has appointed men to most important places in return for presents given to himself, and how he has quartered his worthless relations upon the public treasury, we don't see how he could keep up the DRY - GOODS, GROCERIES, dignity of the Presidency even on a salary of a million a year. Dignity is a moral quality, and Grant seems to have no moral sense left. However, it would be worth while to give him any sum be might require if he would agree to leave off taking presents, and provide for the necessities of his worthless relations out of his own FLOUR, FEED, SALT, &c., &c., handsome fortune. But without some such guarantees on his part, his salary is large enough as it is; any way, he has got rich on it.

Now he is home, he looks so well, And their effect is such, That when they take their daily meal, They don't eat half as much.
