Seven Republican members of the Legislature, enough to control the election of Schator, declare that Was there ever anything (it asks) they will never vote for John Sherman, and that they will not even go nto Republican caucus unless they can have a pledge that some other Republican will be named. Neither will they vote for Delano, and he has retired from the contest. They want the Republicans to nominated ex-Sec retary Cox, and will unite with the Democrats on him if the Radicals reuse. The Sherman Republicans say they will never consent to vote for General Cox. On the other hand, if the Republican cancus should nominate General Cox, there are many Democrats who would vote for him, rather than see him defeated by Sher man's friends.

Senator Sherman closed up the pecial meeting of the Senate Finance 'ommittee a few days since and har ried home in great tribulation. He hopes to be able to employ the Federal of the mighty seven, but they are opposed to Santo Domingo. Grant will do everything in his power to prevent the election of Cox; and both the President and Delano would like to see a compromise upon Gen. Schenck.
