

"CLEARFIELD REPUBLICAN," PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY, BY GOODLANDER & HAGERTY, CLEARFIELD, PA.

TERMS - $2 per annum, in Advance. The largest Circulation of any Newspaper in North-Central Pennsylvania.

THE REPUBLICAN. Clearfield, Pa. WEDNESDAY MORNING, JAN. 17, 1872. VOL. 46--WHOLE NO. 2253.

NEW SERIES--VOL. 13, NO. 3. State of a history of so many independent, separate, sovereign communities, bound in a league of friendship for the better protection of the sovereignty and independence of each one.

Principles; not men. This preamble and resolution express the universal mind of the colonies in relation to the objects and character of the federal union, and show the noble spirit that actuated the people of Connecticut. Their idea of a union was "the security and preservation of their just rights and liberties, and their mutual defence and safety."

It is a good maxim. "Don't cross the bridge before you build it." "We must be patient, and wait our turn."

Ancient Morality. Of the moral characteristics of early cities we should be glad to know more, how the quiet course of domestic life glided on beneath the walls of Karnak and the tower of Babel; what virtues were prized; what joys and sorrows disturbed the current of existence.

Flow far the modern city exceeds the ancient in good order or tranquility is difficult to determine. Yet some indications of moral progress may be discovered. The corruption of Babylon and Thebes was followed, after the lapse of centuries, by the higher culture of Greece. Athens taught humanity.

Pericles boasted that he had been educated in the service of his native city, and in a constant effort to win the esteem of his fellow-citizens; Pericles, that no Athenian had ever suffered by his fault. Benevolence and charity were cultivated in all the Greek cities. The name of Gaius of Agrigentum is preserved, whose immense wealth was wholly employed in aiding the indigent and providing for the welfare of others—the Counts or Peshob of antiquity.

Integrity was prized as the chief of civic virtues. To make profit from a public office was an unpardonable crime. Pericles boasted that he had never increased his moderate inheritance by a single drachma through all his long career.

Among the "stationary" books ordered by Senator Cameron as Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, is a copy of Byron's poems in order that he might study the San Juan romance. So says a Washington rumor. This is a very easy way to get nice books. The old robber can no more change his habits, it seems, than the leopard his spots.
