press train west at Contesville station, on the Pennsylvania railroad, on Friday night, a man by the name of Stapleton, whose garb was that of a farmer or drover, took passage for Latrobe, on the western division.— Shortly after entering the car a very gentlemanly individual, occupying a seat opposite, opened a conversation, during which he stated that he had a during which he stated that he had a large lot of goods in the baggage car for Latrobe, on which there was due $1,000, and unless he could raise that amount before the train arrived at that station his goods would be taken on to Pittsburgh. He showed the old gentleman a paper, which he said was a government bond of the value of a government bond of the value of $1,000, which he wished to get the money for. After considerable talk the old man concluded that he would favor the gentleman. Just then a man came up who represented himself to be the baggage master. Sharper No. 1 remarked, "this gentleman can accomodate me with the money."

The old man took out his wellet

The old man took out his wallet paid over the money to sharper No. 1, who passed it over to sharper No. 2 in liquidation of his indebtedness to the Sharper No. 2, who represented the baggage master, passed out of the car—with the money, and No. 1 turned over to the old man what proved to be in part an imitation of a thousand dollar government bond, but reading "United State Silver Mining company with the words "silver mining com-pany" small, so that a person glanc-ing over it would not notice it. There were no signatures to it, but quite a number of coupons attached to the bottom to give it the appearance of being of some account.

On the arrival of the train at Harrisburg the two men slipped away.- As the train was about to leave Harrisburg the old man stepped off the car and asked the conductor if he had a large lot of goods to put off at La-trobe. The conductor told him to go of the same. front and ask the baggage master.— He then asked if the baggage master wore "gold specks." On hearing the conductor answer "no," he said, "Then I guess I'm swindled out of a thousand dollars." After the train had started from Harrisburg the old man told his story to the conductor and several passengers, who had observed the parties conversing and saw the money change hands, but did not understand the true state of the case.— The old man, in thinking the matter over, remembered having seen the man he gave the money to at Colonel Speakman's hotel in Contesville. He had seen him receive the money for some cattle, and had invented that spr20 CURW little scheme to get possession of it. little scheme to get possession of it, and with what success you already know. The conductor asked the old man if he had another thousand dollars he would like to loan on similar terms, and added that there were some men who should never leave home without taking a guardian with them, and he thought he belonged to that class — Harrisburg Patriot.

A Bootblack Adventure.

The Milwaukee News says : During a slight lull in business here yesterday two little bootblacks, one white and one black, were standing at the corner of Second and Francis streets, doing nothing, when the white bootblack agreed to black the black bootblack's boots. The black bootblack was of course willing to have his boots black-od by his fellow bootblack, and the bootblack who had agreed to black the black bootblack's boots went to work. When the bootblack had black. ed one of the black bootblack's boots until it shone in a manner that would make any bootblack proud, this little bootblack who had agreed to black the black bootblack's boots refused to black the other boot of the black bootblack until the black bootblack, who had consented to have the white boot black black his boots, should add five cents to the amount the white bootblack had made blacking other men' boots. This the bootblack whose boot had been blacked refused to do, saying it was good enough for a black otblack to have one boot blacked. and he didn't care whether the boot that the bootblack badn't blacked was blacked or not. This made the bootblack who had blacked the black bootblack's boot angry, as a bootblack often gets, and he vented his black wrath by spitting upon the blacked boot of the black bootblack. This roused the latent passions of the black DHHADELPHIA. bootblack, and he proceeded to boot the white bootblack with the boot which the white bootblack had blacked. A fight then ensued, in which the white bootblack, who had refused to black-the unblacked boot of the black bootblack, blacked the black bootblack's visionary organ, and in which the black bootblack wore all the blacking off his blacked boot in booting the white bootblack. The frateraity of bootblacks afterward convened and denounced the action of the white and black bootblacks as one of the blackest in the pages of bootblack history.

The same 'girl who wouldn't marry a mechanic who turned out to be a Governor,' is again going the rounds, after a ten years' silence. Don't be uneasy, girls; if you don't want to marry a mechanic, why don't you do it.

A man who lived not far from here, Who worked hard at his trade, But had a household to support That squandered all he made.

I met him once. Says he, "My felend, I look threadhars and rough; I've tried to get myself a earl, But can't save up enough."

Says I, my friend, how much have you? I'll tell you where to go To get a suit that's sound and cheap: To REIZENSTEIN & Co.

He took what little he had eared, And went to Reisenstein & Brothers', And there he got a handsome suit, For half he paid to others.

Now he is home, he looks so well, And their effect is such, That when they take their daily meal, They don't eat half as much.

And now he finds on Saturday night, With all their wants enpplied, That he has money left to spend, And some to lay aside. His good success, with cheerful smile, He gladly tells to all. If you'd save money, go and buy Your clothes at—
