Each for himself must do his Master's work,
Or at his poril leave it all undone;
Witness the fate of one who rought to shirk
The Sanctuary's service, yet would shun
The penalty. A man of earthly aims
(So runs the apologue), whose pious spouse
Would off remind him of the Church's claims,
Still answered thus, "Go thon and pay our yow.
For thee and me!" Now, when at Peter's gate
The twain together had arrived at last,
He let the woman in; then to her mate,
Shutting the door, "Thou hast already passed
By Proxy," said the Srint—"just in the way
That thou on earth wast wont to fast and pray!"

How to Save Money.

"HEtimes are bard; you'd like to know

How you may save your dollars; The way to do it I will show, If you will read what follows.

A man who lived not far from here, Who worked hard at his trade, But had a household to support That squandered all he made,

I met him once. Says he, "My friend, I look threadbare and rough; I've tried to get myself a suit, But can't save up enough."

Says I, my friend, how much have you? I'll tell you where to go To get a suit that's sound and cheap: To REIZENSTEIN & Co.

He took what little he had saved, And went to Relsenstein & Brothers', And there he got a handsome suit, For half he paid to others.

Now he is home, he looks so well, And their effect is such, That when they take their daily meal, They don't eat half as much.

And now he finds on Saturday night, With all their wants supplied, That he has money left to spend, And some to lay aside.

His good success, with choerful smile, He gladly tells to all. If you'd save money, go and buy Your clothes at—
