

THE REPUBLICAN.

CLEARFIELD, PA.
WEDNESDAY MORNING, OCT. 26, 1872.

Colonel McClure's View.
Colonel McClure, who is a shrewd observer, gives this perfectly just and moderate statement of the way in which the late election was conducted in this city. To a reporter of the Press Colonel McClure said:

Fraud has become such a science, and is so completely protected by the officers of the law, that the politicians are not content with moderate frauds even when frauds are not necessary.

Reporter: Was there no way to arrest these frauds?

McJunkin. None. The people of Philadelphia are powerless. An irresponsible Board of Aldermen appoint the canvassers, mostly charlatans or incompetent men, and they register 20,000 or 30,000 fictitious names. The repeaters were here in swarms to vote the false names, the leader of the enterprise, Mr. Theo. Allen, having rooms at both the Continental and the Girard. The police with the knowledge and approval of Major Stokley, not only protected repeaters but, in many instances, plied them to their fields of operations, and the Deputy United States Marshals, as a rule, were but allies of the repeaters. Then they had the Election Boards, made up expressly to reverse the fraudulent votes, and no officer in the city to make an arrest in earnest for any offence committed by the rounders and repeaters. We had, therefore, no possible restraint upon fraud, and we have no tribunals wherein to punish the guilty.

Reporter: Where is the remedy to come from for these alarming evils?

McClure: I don't know. For the frauds of this year the respectable and sold men of Philadelphia are much to blame, for they came to the front and knowingly shielded organized crime in their sincere anxiety to save Grant. They will now be appalled to see a body of Legislators and city officers elected who will close the doors to all reform, and they will revile us soon as the Presidential election is over; but they will be powerless, for the Governor must break faith with the friends who nominated and elected him if he ever approves any bill for the relief of Philadelphia.

A PATRIOT.—Gen. Wm. E. Doster, Grant's Revenue Collector in the Xth District of this State, has resigned, and in his letter of resignation says:

"In the national canvass I am for peace. By peace I mean not order kept by force, which is no peace, but the quiet which reigns in this country when there is general confidence in the President to do what is right, by all and for all—the harmony which comes by casting behind us the hatreds hearburnings and proscriptions bred by civil war. I mean by peace what I said in a speech at Washington City, in 1865. 'We are at the end of a civil war, a time when it is desirable there should be no further mention or remembrance of fraternal strife.' That is true peace, for it comes from the heart. That kind of peace I am for now more than ever, because our grudges are now seven years older; because such patriots as Chase, Sumner, Schurz, and Trumbull advocate it, and because people in all the States, from both armies, of all parties, and of all colors have this year, as if impelled by the instinct of ancient fraternity, risen up with a common voice to demand R. A. And, sooner or later, they will have it. Not however, through the Republican party under General Grant. That party became great in war, and cannot become great in peace without ceasing to be martial. That glorious work will have to be done by new hands, unembarrassed by past differences, and led by some civilian who loves civil modes of procedure, respects local authority, and is devoted to objects which appeal to the pride of every American citizen. The task of establishing a permanent accord between Americans is in its nature, outside of and beyond military skill; and as, during our revolution, the things which were beyond General Washington were well done by a praiser from Philadelphia, so now I am for leaving the things which are beyond Gen. Grant, to a praiser from New York. I certainly believe that before this country is four years older, the world will be how any rational man or Christian could for a moment doubt the good policy and righteousness of national reconciliation."

AGENTS, PLEASE TELL US.—Will the Grant party ever consent to inform the people why Congress gave up the first mortgage on the Pacific railroad to a corrupt ring, and took a second mortgage for the government, which was worth nothing?

Will they ever tell the people how it came to pass that, in addition to the money, public lands were given to that road in square miles equal to the territories of Connecticut, Massachusetts and New Hampshire?

It is not enough for Henry Wilson to say, "I do not grudge the money—I do not grudge the lands." We know he didn't. But a better explanation of the astounding action of Congress is wanted.

TEXAS.—In the spring of 1870, the Assessors of U. S. taxes for the District of Texas became a defaulter, and ran off. There was no Collector, and of course nobody paid taxes, as there was no one authorized to receive.

Now, over 1,500 Democrats have been arrested to be brought before the U. S. Court, for non-payment of taxes during the very time when there was no Collector to receive them.

As this process will detain those persons from the polls on the 5th of November, it is plainly a trick of Grant's underlings to deprive them of the right of suffrage, and lessen Greeley's vote to Texas to that amount.

Frank is bad, bribery is worse, but to use legal process as a cover for an electioneering dodge, seems to be the worst of all. Truly, the administration appears to balk at no plan of securing four years more of rule.

Some of our Democratic contemporaries in the interior are congratulating themselves that Verden was not a candidate for Governor. Radical sympathy would have given him a still larger majority than Hartman. Verden will no doubt be the next Radical nominee for Governor.

Dry Goods, Groceries, Etc.

Down! Down!
THE LAST ARRIVAL
AND OF COURSE THE CHEAPEST!

Proclamation against High Prices!

We are now bound to stop a lot of the best and most economical Goods. We are in this market, and at prices that remind one of the good old days of cheap things. Those who lack faith upon this point, or dear our allegations, need not buy.

CALL AT OUR STORE,

Corner Front and Market streets;
Where they can see, feel, hear and know for themselves. To fully understand what cheap goods this must be done. We do not need it necessary to enumerate and itemize our stock. It is enough for us to state that

We have Everything that is Needed and consumed in this market, and at prices that astonish both old and young.
