WEDNESDAY MORNING, NOV. 27, 1872.

Up in the merning early,
Just at the peep of day,
Straining the milk in the dairy,
Turning the come away,
Sweeping the floor in the kitchen,
Making the beds up stairs,
Washing the breakfast dishos,
Dusting the parlor chairs.

Oh! how merry the lay, light and gay,
We sing of the farmers' girls, hurrah
How merry the lay, we carol to-day,
Of the merry farmers' girls.

Of the marry farmers' girls.
Breaking the crumbs from the purious for ange at the barn, Cleaning the turnips for dinner, Spinning the stocking yarn, Spreading the whitening linen Down on the bush below, Ransacking every meadow, Where the strawberries grow.

Starching the "fixings" for Senday, Charning the snowy cream, Rinsing the pails and the strainers Down in the running stream. Feeding the gence and the turkeys, Making the pumpkin pies, Jogging the little one's cradle, Driving away the flies.

Grace in every motion,
Music in every tone,
Beauty of form and feature
Thousands might covet to ewn,
Cheeks that will rival spring roses,
Tech the whitest of pearls,
One of those country maids are worth
A score of your city girls.

Tiding from the Iceless Polar Sea--Its Geographical Import.

The important tidings which we publish to-day from the great open Polar Sea will be read with deep in terest, as furnishing new evidence of the existence of that mysterious phethe existence of that mysterious phe-nomenon first made known by the American explorers under Dr. Kane. This time the explorer is the bold Norwegian, Captain Nils Johnson, who, as late as the latter part of last to the east of Spitzbergen, and, more over, discovered from the mountains of the islands seas free of ice to the northeastward and the indications of powerful oceanic currents serving to keep open the higher Polar seas. For two and a balf centuries, as Dr.
