

Ice Cream in Paper.

The Danbury man says that Mr. Rogers, of Winchester street, thought he would surprise his wife and a few of her friends with an ice cream treat, some time ago, as the weather was dreadfully hot. So he went into the confectionery, and ordered a quantity of his, and sugar loaf style. The confectioner told him how to carry it, and Mr. Rogers gripped it, and hastened toward home. About three blocks from the house he met a neighbor who was going home on the same mission, and both of them stopped to remark on the coincidence. Then they fell to talking about "Betsey and I am Out," and trying to compromise on the authorship, but didn't make much headway. Rogers, who was a personal friend of Miss Emerson, claimed that she did not write the poem, and tried to throw the odium of the authorship upon Carlton. The neighbor was indignant at this, as he favored Carlton, and made the rather strong assertion that Miss E. was not too good to write it. Here Rogers lost his temper, and the neighbor missed his, and the two commenced laying themselves out for one of the grandest intellectual tussles ever seen in that ward, when a sudden and severe chill along his left leg startled Rogers into a recollection of his errand, and looking down the unhappy friend of Miss Emerson was shocked beyond description to see a pair of doekin pants blighted in the bud, and to find that the entire contents of the paper package, with the exception of a trifle caught in one shoe, had mysteriously disappeared. "Godforfear!" said Mr. Rogers, and immediately started for home. The neighbor was appropriately pained by the accident, but was of the private opinion that it was a sort of judgment from heaven on Rogers, but whether for stopping to talk when carrying ice cream, or for his literary views he could not tell. When he got home he told his wife about it, and she pulled out his boots. Then he bounded up and shot one hand behind him, and howled; and about the other hand back there, and howled again. Then he jumped around and tore away at his coat, which was a new dress pattern, and hurried in remarks about religion and business, and all the while that coat wept great tears of vanilla, and dropped them on the furniture and will paper, and buried them in the carpet, and dashed them against the blinds, and checked of the astonished wife. It was some fifteen minutes before she found out that in zeal for Carlton he had jammed his package of ice cream into one of his coat tail pockets. The next morning he hunted up Rogers and divided with him the express charge on a package of clothing to the Howard Mission.

Western Common Sense.

The editor of the Bureau, Ill. Republican, writes in reference to the hard times that are complained of at the West. The editor thinks that there are other causes for general complaint than the exactions of the railway monopolists, and there is too much scheming to get living wages, and rendering an equivalent in honorable labor. Our boys are not learning useful trades; our farmers' sons are crowding into the small towns and cities seeking after positions as clerks; our girls refuse to do housework, and so we are sending to Europe for workmen, and buying of their artisans millions worth of products and manufactures that we ought to make for ourselves. Though our crop of rascals in heavy we do not grow our hemp; though we are overworked with lads who deserve flagellation, we import our willows. Our women (unless greatly deceived) shine in foreign fabrics, and our men are dressed in foreign clothes. We are like the farmer who hires his neighbors' sons to cut his wood, feed his stock, and run his errands, while his own boys loaf around saloons and spend their time in playing billiards and gambling, and then wonders why, in spite of his best efforts, he sinks annually deeper and deeper into debt, till the sheriff cleans him out, and he starts West to begin again. The time has come for us to turn over a new leaf. Our boys and girls must be taught to love labor by qualifying themselves to do it efficiently. We must turn out fewer professionals, and more skilled artisans and producers. We must grow and fabricate the immense quantity of articles that we now annually import, and so reduce the foreign debt that we have so long and so successfully augmented year by year. We must qualify our clever boys to erect and run factories, saw-mills, rolling-mills, machine-shops, tanneries, to open and work mines, improve and fashion implements, and double the products of the farm. If we shall adopt this policy, and then take such measures as will correct the abuses growing out of our mammoth railway privileges, we shall witness a true development of national prosperity that will be as firm as the everlasting hills.

BLUNDERS OF BASHFULNESS.—If there is any defect more striking than that in American character, it is bashfulness. Young America, in particular, is painfully affected by it. An incident is mentioned by a correspondent, who was desired by his aunt to go over to neighbor Shaw's and see if he had any straw for sale for filling beds. "Mr. Shaw," said our informant, "was blessed with a goodly number of Misses Shaw, and I therefore felt a little timid at encountering them. To make the matter worse, I arrived just as the family were seated at dinner. Stopping at the doorway, hat in hand, I stammered out: 'Mr. Straw can you spare me enough straw to fill a couple of beds?'" "Well," replied the old gentleman, glancing around at his large family, and enjoying my mistake, "I don't know but I can; how many will you need?" "I should like to recover, those hateful girls burst into a chorus of laughter, and I broke for home in a cold sweat."

A Baltimore paper notices as something remarkable that a Scotchman has died in that city who was 111 years old, and was wounded in the battle of Waterloo. We should think it time that he died.
