WEDNESDAY MORNING, SEPT. 3, 1873. ented for the REPUBLICAN.
BETH GELERT; OR, THE GRAYE OF THE

The spearman heard the bugle sound, And gaily smiled the morn; And many a brach and many a hound Attend Llewellyn's hord.

And still he blew a louder blast And gave a louder cheer; "Come, Gelert, why art thou the last Liewellyn's horn to hear? "Where does my faithful Gelect ro.
The flower of all his race—
So true, so brave, a lamb at home,
A lion in the chase?"

'Twas only at Liewellyn's board, The faithful Gelert fed; He watched, he served, he cheered his ford And sentincled his hed. In sooth, he was a peerless hound,
The gift of royal John;
But now no Gelert could be found,
And all the chase rode on.

And now, as over rocks and dells, The huntsmens' cheerings rise, All Snowden's craggy chaos yells, With many mingled cries. That day Levellyn little loved The chase of hart or bare, And scant and small the booty proved, For Gelert was not there.

Unpleased, Liewellyn homeward hied, When, near the portal seat, His trumt Gelert he espied, Bounding his lord to greet.

But when he gained his castle door, Aghast the chieftain stood; The hound was smeared with drops of go His lips and fangs ran blood! Liewellyn gazed with wild surprise, Unused such looks to meet; His favorite cheeked his joyful gulse, And crouched and licked his teet.

Onward, in haste, Liewellyn passed, And on went (felert, too; And still where'er his eyes he cast, Fresh blood-drops shocked his view O'erturned his infant's bed he found, The blood-stained covert reat, And all around the walls and ground, With recent blood hesprent.

He called his child, no voice replied-He searched with terror wild; Blood! blood he found on every side— But nowhere found his child.

"Blood-hound, by thee my child's devoure.
The frautic father cried;
And to the hilt his vengeful sword,
He plunged in Gelert's side. His suppliant look, as prone be fell, No pity sould impart; Yet mournfully his dying yell Sunk in Liewellyn's heart.

Aroused by Gelert's dying yell, Some slumb'rer wakened nigh— What words the parent's joy can tell, To hear his infant cry. Concealed amidst a mingled Beap, His hurried search had unissed; All glowing from his rosy sleep, His cherub boy he kissed.

Nor wound had be, nor harm, nor dread But the same cough beneath, Lay a great wolf, all tors and dead— Tremendous still in death!

Ah! What was then Liewellyn's pain?

For now the truth was cle Vain, vain, was all Liewellyn's wo; "Best of thy kind, adicu!" The frantic deed which laid the low, This heart shall ever rue.

And now a gailant tomb they raise, With costly sculpture decked; And marbles storied with his praise, Poer Gelert's bones protect.

There never could the spearman pass, Or forester unmoved; Here oft the tear besprinkled grass, Liewellyn's sorrow proved. And here he hung his horn and spear, And oft as evening fell, In fancy's piercing sounds would hear Poor Gelert's dying yell!

The Monster Masonic Temple. The New York Herald has had a correspondent at Philadelphia to look at the grand new Masonic Temple which is to be dedicated on the 28th of September next. His description of this magnificent edifice is very full and clear and as we believe it will be read by many of our subscribers with great interest we transfer it to our state of completion, and from its im-mense size and imposing style of arch-itecture is one of the most conspicuous public buildings in the city. Much has been said by New Yorkers and Bostonians in praise of their respec-tive Masonic temples, but it is now generally conceded that the Philadelphia structure far surpasses both as respects size, cost and beauty. It will make two of that at Boston, and is a third larger than the temple in Sixth and Twenty-third street. It is of such immense size, and is filled with of wainut and cedar chairs, divans, so many lodge, chapter and commande. c. covered with blue velvet. The dery rooms, that to those unitiated it is almost a labyrinth. As it has never been fully described a running sketch may not be amiss, as it gives evidence that the Masons throughout Is the man to go to if you want a set of new HARNESS or a new SADDLE, or anything clse in that like. He turns out as good work as is done in any shop in Pennsylvania, and his prices done in any shop in Pennsylvania, and his prices done in any shop in Pennsylvania, and his prices done in any shop in Pennsylvania, and his prices done in any shop in Pennsylvania, and his prices done in the high road to prosperity, and as a brotherhood are marching on in irrepressible phalanxes done in any shop in Pennsylvania, and his prices. the country are on the high road to finely dressed granite of a whitish
