

THE REPUBLICAN.

CLEARFIELD, PA.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, NOV. 3, 1873.

AUTUMN.

"Tis the golden gleam of an autumn day,
With the soft rain raining as it may;
And a tender touch upon everything;
As if autumn remembered the days of spring.

In the listening woods there is not a breath
That can stir the leaves, or move them, now;
A glow of sunlight upon them lies,
Though the sun is hid in the shadowed skies.

The cock's clear crow from farmyard comes,
The muffled bell from the belfry rooms,
And faint and dim, and from far away,
Come the voices of children in happy play.

Over the mountains the white rains draw their veil,
And the black rocks, caving, across their sail,
Over the streams the silver waves swim
Over the stars the river's freedom claim.

No sorrow upon the landscape weighs;
No grief for the vanished summer days,
But a sense of peace and calm repose
Like that which age in its autumn knows.

The spring-time longings are past and gone,
The passions of summer are no longer known,
The harvest is gathered, and autumn stands
Seated in her robes with folded hands.

Over the hills the season here,
A quiet ideal the earth wears,
For memory sifts from the past its pain,
And suffers its beauty alone to remain.

With half a smile and with half a sigh
It pads the past that has hurried by;
Sees it, and feels it, and loves it all,
Content it has vanished beyond recall.

Glorious autumn thus comes,
Thus living and loving all that has been!
Thus calm and contented let me be,
When the autumn of ages shall come to me.

Too Much Married.

A SANCTIMONIOUS SELL ON JERSEY SHORE.

From the Herald of that place we get the following:

A SCAMP.—A shoemaker, giving his name as William Jones, came to Jersey Shore last winter and procured work with Mr. A. W. Brown. After working for Mr. B. a few days he presented a certificate from the M. E. Church of Buffalo, N. Y., as a local preacher, and was received into the M. E. church here. He seemed to be very zealous in the cause of Christianity and made many friends in our community. Mr. Joe Ruffhead taking an interest in the man—and his wife who accompanied him—sent to the city for a fine assortment of Boots and Shoes and left the establishment go in his name, Mr. Jones receiving a share of the profits. He preached occasionally—one in the M. E. church. A vacancy occurring in the Evangelical Association of Christians, some weeks ago, by the retirement of Rev. Rightmire, Mr. Jones withdrew from the M. E. church and connected himself with that denomination, and filled the appointment of Mr. Rightmire.

Unfortunately for Mr. Jones and fortunate for the Association, while he was filling an appointment at Wayne Station, on Tuesday last, a young lady from Troy, Jefferson county, Pa., who was visiting Mr. Deiss at that place, was invited to go to church, to which she consented. When they arrived at the church the services were commenced, Mr. Jones positioning to the throne of grace in his usual happy style. They stood outside, as they did not wish to disturb the congregation. After listening a moment or two this young lady remarked that "if that preacher was a lame man, she would be willing to be qualified that his proper name was Hansie Robinson from Troy, Jefferson county, Pa., a notorious character, who left that place some years ago, leaving a wife and four children in destitute circumstances." She said she "knew his voice, that he was her class leader." She described him so accurately without seeing him, the members of the church concluded to send for Rev. Mr. Rearick, the preacher in charge. After Mr. Rearick arrived he told Mrs. what was said about him by this young lady and that he had better call on her, and clear himself of so serious a charge. He turned pale, and refused to do so at the time, but promised to meet her the next morning. That afternoon he left for Lock Haven and that is the last seen of William Jones, alias Hansie Robinson.

It is said he has another wife in Troy, Pa., making three in all.

He purchased a horse from a gentleman near Jersey Shore for $250, twenty-five of which he paid down—a buggy and harness from another gentleman on which he paid a small sum,—taking the horse and buggy away with him. His last wife remains in Lock Haven with some of her relatives. That she has been basely deceived by Robinson we have no doubt.

He is about five feet high, black hair, black eyes and dark complexion. His left leg is paralyzed and shorter than the other. He is a noted scoundrel, and the press throughout the country will confer a favor on the cause of Christianity by giving him a notice.

THE "BEAST" HAS THE FLOOR.—According to the news from Washington Ben Butler will assume the role of a reformer when Congress assembles on the first Monday of December. It is stated that he is organizing a movement to have the Republican caucus, which will nominate the officers of the next House of Representatives, declare emphatically against giving any member implicated in the Credit Mobilier transaction leading positions on the standing committees of the House. His object appears to be the punishment of Dawes, Garfield and a few others with whom he has had unpleasant relations. There is a general feeling, however, among the members against allowing these gentlemen to assume their former positions in the House. It is argued that the Republicans lost Ohio through the Credit Mobilier and the Salary Bill, and it is held that should the next House endorse these transactions by elevating those who took prominent part in them to the chairmanship of leading committees it will endanger the party's success next fall, and possibly the Presidential election. What a pity that would be! The hero of Port Fisher a reformer, is indeed wonderful. When will miracles cease?

KEEP ON.—One of Boston's esteemed citizens was in a well-known restaurant, partaking of the wholesome and invigorating apple-pie. Discovering something therein that seemed to have no legitimate connection with pie, he called the proprietor, and doffentially observed to him, "See what I have found in this pie—a piece of blue overall with button attached." The enterprising proprietor, not at all disconcerted, quietly replied, "Well, keep on eating; you may find the meat."

A dandy asked a barber's boy if he had ever shaved a monkey. "No, sir," answered the lad, "but if you will take a chair I'll try."
