classified by the other lady passengers) was prepossessing, complaisant, and evidently devoted to her liege lord -The groom was young, tolerably The groom was young, tolerably handsome, and very pround of the trusting young woman nesting by his side, and so they passed the very delightful hours that intervened before reaching Grand Island, but here their dream of happiness was suddenly dis-turbed 1. A middle-aged man bustled into the car, and as he confronted the reaching of the bare was a look of as into the car, and as he confronted the young couple there was a look of as-tonishment on the part of the young man and a scream of terror on the part of the young lady. The intruder was the step-father of the young lady, who was not yet a bride, bat hoped to be on reaching the first station where an officer could be found to per-form the coremony that would unite where an officer could be found to per-form the ceremony that would unito her to the man of her choice. A few threatening words from the iratefather caused the brave young knight to suc-cumb and leave the train, his weep-ing affianced giving herself reluctantly to the charge of her father. But though defented, the young knight was not subdued, for he silently stole was not subdued, for he should stole away to the baggage car, told his sad tale to the sympathetic baggage mas-ter, was permitted to ride concealed among the trunks, and when the train reached Sacramento he managed to apprise his sweetheart of his presence in time to wisk her away and get the knot tied before the parent discovered that the young man had been a fellowpassenger all the time that he sup-posed him to be in the neighborhood of the Missouri river."

Grain Binder for a Reaper.

The Davenport (Iowa) Gazette states that S F. Parker of that city, has introduced an improved grain binder attached to the side of a reaper, the bed of which is traversed by a rake on an endless belt that carries the grain from before the sickle, when cut, and lays it over on the binder .- This is a concave of sheet iron in which the grain lies until bound. From a spool the twine unwinds through the spool the twine unwinds through the tying apparatus, is caught by a nip-per, carried around and wrapped tight on the sheaf, is tied into a perfect knot, is cut, and the sheaf drops to the ground scourely bound. The the ground scourely bound. The the ground securely bound. The making of the knot, nover before ac-complished in all the numerous at PAINTS, OILS, CALCINED PLASTER, 4c. complished in all the numerous at tempts, at binding by machinery, is completely successful; the mechanism by which this is accomplished being ascertain in its operations as the mak-ing of a suitch by a perfect sewing machine.

machine. The Gazette adds, respecting this improvement, "that once in successful use, they will revolutionize harvest work, and will add millions of dollars to the wealth of the nation, in the im-mense saving they will effect in the cost of securing grain crops.

No man can justly censure of con-demn another, because indeed no man truly knows another. This I perceive in myself; for I am in the dark to all the world, and my nearest friends be-hold me bat in a cloud; those that know me superficially think less of me than I do sayself; my near ac-quaintances think more, and God, who knows me truly, knows that I am pothing.—Sir Thomas Brown.
