The Peril of the United States.

Let us honestly admit the truth, and manfully apply the remedy. The peril of our American life is dishonesty. This produces the lack of confidence, which is the root of panies. Slavery involved us in a civil war. Better it should survive to perish hereafter in corruptions The urn is less offensive than the putrescence of the grave. Our very existence is at stake. American life presents an anomalous specta-cle. We are socially pure and com-mercially depraced. Men who are upright in the neighborhood and ad-mirable in their homes will habitually and knowingly and systematically do wrong in their business. Nay! even churches, to draw crowds, rent pews churches, to draw crowds, rent pews and raise revenues, will resort not only to sensationalism in choir and pulpit, but make earth blush and heaven weep over tricks which are degrading, demoralizing and insulting to all manliness and religion. Nor is the malady confined only to men in distinguished position. It effects all classes of our republic, the tainted streams of the summit percolate the entire mountain. Of all the sins of humanity, bribery is perhaps the meanest. Most other crimes are possible to the control of the sins of humanity, bribery is perhaps the meanest. Most other crimes are possible to the control of the sins of humanity, bribery is perhaps the meanest. Most other crimes are possible to the control of the sins of humanity, bribery is perhaps the meanest. Most other crimes are possible to the control of the sins of humanity, bribery is perhaps the meanest. Most other crimes are possible to the control of the sins of humanity, bribery is perhaps the meanest. Most other crimes are possible to the past year, been calarged to double its of the past humanity, bribery is perhaps the meanest. Most other crimes are possible to a single transgressor. Here there must be two parties to the guilt, the man who gives and the man who takes. Both are debased. There may be daring in robbery, and courses in be daring in robbery, and courage in murder. The peculiarity of bribery is its cowardice. It sneaks, it cringes, it hides, it winds, it twists, it wriggles roshing on its proy, but a sorpent lurking in the grass to infuse its poisson before crushing with its coils. A man who abuses his office, warps to independ and twists his conscience of the confortable while taken its budgment and twists his conscience. for a bribe, sells his soul by his not, and ever after lives expecting a higher bidder for himself; and he is, like nitroglycerine, dangerous to his purchaser. Now it is a painful and mortifying fact that nearly everything in our country has, in some way, directly, or indirectly, been controlled by bribes. Mechanics, overseers, builders, contractors, architects have been bribed. Constables, policemen, collectors, inspectors, weighers, measurers, gaugers, post-masters have been bribed. Judges, juries, legislators, governors, bave been bribed. We have sometimes feared that it would be difficult to place a stone or a timber or a lock or a screw or a nail in your house that has not somewhere in its passage left the stain of a bribe. It is doubtful whether the food which supports our lives, or the coffins which will convey us to our graves, can wholly escape contamination. The consequence is disturbed faith in each other, and sometimes a distrust of our country and humanity, apr.22.6m] 121 North Third St., Philadelphia, with a fear like a shadow that on all modern European and American societies is but the old doom of ancient Babylon and Rome. Our faith alone saves from despair. That is sufficient, but not here to be discussed. Certain AND OF COURSE THE CHEAPEST: it is that panies and the other evils we have named are but eruptions of dis-ease on the surface of the body politic. Our nation from our civil war has been preparing for our commercial disasters. The timbers of the edifice of our public credit had been decaying long before the weakened structure was threat-ened with its crash. Many under-

Preserve.—The Philadelphia Age to enumerate and itemire our stock. It is enough thus causticly remarks: "Blessed be the man who invented pretexts! What We have Everything that is Needed trouble and blushes they prevent and hide! What personal pride they mol-lify! How Cabinet officers dote on them, when having disgraced them-selves, their Presidential chief and their country, they feel or are made to feel that it is time to resign! It is a foreign mission offered, a judge-shin in the Count of Chief. ship in the Court of Claims, bad health, FURNITURE, or going into private business. such pretexts are made for the Secre tary of the Treasury, for instance, the courteous public bows and mur-mers politely : "Naturally-of course." But at the same time, that courteous public has common sense and thinks "Sanborn, Sanborn." Thrice preciou sticking-plaster of pretext, that will cover the gangrening Sanborn wound !

How to be it.- The New Jersey Legislature passed a law last week that no liquor seller should be licensed in the town of Orange unless he paid $100 per year, and received the endorsement of 12 property holders on his application for license, and no citizen to sign but one petition for such license. The application must be printed in a newspaper two weeks, with the names of those endorsing it. There is some common sense in that kind of legislation. Could not our legislators try something of that sort.

In Council.—The following named railroad kings met in New York on Friday last: Col Thomas A. Scott, of the Pennsylvania Central Railroad; well selected stock of ITALIAN AND VERMONT Mr. Vanderbilt, of the New York Central Ratiroad; Mr. McCullough, of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and President Watson, of the Eric Railroad, have had a conference on the subject of passenger and freight rates between the West and East.

The Congressional Senate Commit teo on Finances held a long session or Saturday on the currency question.
There is no difficulty among members on the general features of free banking, the clause of which they are in favor, but there is no agreement on the other branches of the financial bill upon which members differ widely in their opinions. The Secretary of War sent to Congress on Tuesday the report of Major Morrill on the extension of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal to the Ohio river. The distance thirty miles, and the estimated cost $1,795,000. The "tater buga" are soon to appear, three hundred thousand strong. They are now resting on their oars, awaiting the coming of the first man to deposit their favorite fruit. That's what one who knows says.
