

GEORGE B. GOODLANDER

WEDNESDAY MORNING, SEP. 15, 1914

DEMOCRATIC STATE TICKET

FOR JUDGE OF THE SUPREME COURT

WARREN J. WOODWARD

OF BERKS COUNTY

FOR LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR

JOHN LATTA

OF WESTERHOLM COUNTY

FOR AUDITOR GENERAL

JUSTUS F. TEMPLE

OF GREEN COUNTY

FOR SECRETARY OF INTERNAL AFFAIRS

WILLIAM MCANDRESS

OF PHILADELPHIA

WHO MAY VOTE

It is to remind our readers that under the new Constitution, every person offering to vote must show that he has been a citizen of the United States at least one month—

This will cut off all persons naturalized after the 23rd day of October in the present year.

2. That he has resided in the State a year, or if formerly a resident and removed therefrom shall have returned six months preceding the election—

This is the same provision that pre-valled in the old Constitution.

3. That he has resided in the election district where he offers to vote, at least two months immediately before the election.

4. That he has, within two years and at least a month before the election, paid a State or county tax assessed at least two months prior to the election.

The Democrats of Juniata county have done themselves credit by recommending Hon. Jerome Hetrick as their candidate for representative in the legislature. He was one of the very best men in that body last winter.

A LONG SET—R. C. Winslow, Esq.,

of PUNXSUTAWY, and Capt. D. S.

Porter, of Indiana, are the Republican candidates for Senate in that district.

After a three days' session and several hundred ballots, the conference adjourned to meet in Brookville on the 12th of October.

A SUBSTANTIAL CHANGE—At the municipal election in the city of Wilmington, Delaware, on Monday last week, the Democrats carried the city by a majority of ten, electing their candidates in six wards. The Republicans carried three wards and the independents one. Last year the Republicans carried the city by 820 majority.

So we go, and the tide is still rising.

COLORADO DEMOCRATIC—An election for Delegate to Congress and Territorial officers was held in Colorado, on the 14th of September.

In favor of the Democrats. Two years ago Chaffee, had, was elected to Congress, by 1,300 majority; now Patterson,

Dem., is elected by nearly 400 majority. The Democrats gain largely all over the territory, and have literally cleared the Radicals out.

A THIN ARRANGEMENT—The Radicals

have put Wm. D. Forten, a gentleman of color in Philadelphia, on their State central committee. They want the darkies to help during the campaign, and vote to continue the State ring in power; but as to putting a negro on the ticket, that is out of the question. They merely want to use

Sambo and Coffee as voting machines.

THE BEECHER SCANDAL—Our Mutual

friend Moulton has issued an appendix to his former card, in relation to the Brooklyn scandal. His last of-fort makes six hundred columns of fine type in the New York Sun, and must be reported that the robber Evans has made a confession, since the Court has decided that he could not avail himself of the benefits of the insolvent act, like ordinary criminals. If Evans tells all he knows, somebody will be hurt, because the $300,000 steal is not near all in the hands of this criminal.

Let Evans unboast himself and tell the public who his confederates are who have perpetrated this public wrong.

THE PRIMARY ELECTION—As we go to press the Democratic County Convention in its session, and we are of course unable to give the returns this week, but from the indications it seems that Hartsford, Ed. Bloom, J. J.

Wagon and G. W. Kyle will be nominated for Assembly, Prothonotary,

Register and Recorder and Commissioner. As there was no opposition to the Philadelphia Evening Telegraph, published by the Harvings, and one of the leading Radical journals of that city and of the State, has this to say of Edward M. Paxson, whom that party has just set up for Judge of the Supreme Court.

"It is simply an insult and a slur to the Republican party of Pennsylvania that a man of such ability and high character should be forced into the highest judicial position in the State by a party which has no other alternative than to nominate a man of such low character and low ability."

This is certainly Democratic gospel, and should be convincing proof, when given by an advocate of "grand moral ideas." Paxson's corruption and moral inequality for the position to which he aspires is as glaring as the noonday sun to every observer of current events.

And what puzzles us is, that so many men who would do us no wrong clamor for his election. Paxson's corruption, added to the weakness and bigotry of Gordon, will soon drag our Supreme Court in the mud, should the people be foolish enough to elect the former.

When the majority of that Court is made up of such men as the two we have indicated, the people may as well hang their political "chairs upon the willows," because the Philadelphia Roughs will control the Supreme Court as effectually as they did the recent Radical State Convention.

A REMARKABLE ADMISSION.—We were not astonished at the sayings of those Radical editors during the war who possessed common sense before the conflict broke out. The editor of the Philadelphia Press belonged to the class indicated; yet we know how wickedy he urged the assassination of Mrs. Surratt and others during the reign of Lincoln.

Last week, in alluding to the report of the Beecher's committee, he remarked:

"This report has nothing more to do with the guilt of innocents of Mr. Beecher than have the annual Patent Office of Agriculture."

Every right-thinking man of sound sense and common sense can be reassured only by the fact that the Beecher committee was not a committee of grave nature, but a committee of malfeasance, was made about four weeks ago by Pomeroy's Democrat, in relation to a money order sent by a lady in Kentucky to her husband in New York.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.

It is a sad spectacle when the professed Christian man, occupying a honorable official position and possessing the confidence of the people, falls and it is certainly an unpleasant duty for a journalist to be obliged to report such an event. For the last eight years, Geo. W. Daisey, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor, has been the postmaster at this place, and a member of the Democratic party.