Once a week, on Saturday night, the country horses are given a feed of boiled oats and bran, and twice a week the horses tabled in the eity get a similar diet. THE TRACK.

Close by the stables is a three-quarter mile track, enclosing 114 acres of fine pasture, and surrounded by a strong stone wall. In shape it is oblong. It is been carefully laid out, and graded with the truest and easiest of curves and the greatest attainable exactness in length. The bed of the track is twenty-five feet wide, and although only a year old, it is in excellent condition, having been rendered firm and clean by the use of suitable composts. It is such public with an excellent quality of the public with an excellent qua

THE HOME AFFECTIONS.

The philosopher, Fenelon, used to say: "I love my family better than myself, my country better than my family, and mankind better than my country; for I am more a Frenchman than a Fenelon, and more a man than a Frenchman."

beautiful in theory than in practice, and we should prefer the man who proceeded inversely, and invested his first affections in the domestic treasury, where they would yield a high rate of interest, and not be in danger of ship-wrecks or punics. Religion possesses thousands of preachers and politics and science have their innumerable NEW SERIES-VOL. 16, NO. 27. lecturers; but there appears to be a lack of practical bome teachers— apostles of the Religion of Home— whose duty it is to teach the beauties
