Our Special column is decidedly interesting in a local point of view, and profitable reading to outsiders who want to save money.

A nine-weeks revival is still in progress in the M. E. church at Philipsburg. Still, the town seems to be supplied with incendiaries and thieves, according to the proddings of the Journal.

The Muncy Luminary says that there resides in that place a lady who bought her only row of pins over twenty years ago, when she began housekeeping, and has them all yet with the exception of three or four.

Got his Reward.—James B. Zahm, the defaulting cashier of the banking house of Collins, Johnston & Co., Ebensburg, was tried for his embezzlements last week and awarded a period of two years and six months in the penitentiary for his misplaced confidence.

Sad Accident.—We regret to learn that our esteemed old friend, Thomas Leonard, of West Clearfield, formerly of Girard township, fell on the pavement and dislocated a hip joint and otherwise received bodily injury, on Monday last. He is getting along as well as can be expected under the circumstances.

Notwithstanding "hard times," as persons are so used to saying, business at Wm. Reed's continues as briskly as ever. He keeps the best assortment of goods in the county, and customers get so much for a little money that they go marching off with each large bundles, feeling satisfied that times are not so hard after all.

Our Schools.—It cannot be denied that our public schools under the Superintendency of Mr. Gregory, are in a very prosperous condition. His indefatigable efforts to bring teachers and scholars up to the highest standard is visible on every hand. As an instance of his labor, if the reader will turn to our first page he will find several columns of critical questions relating to the Theory of Teaching, ranging from thirteen to forty-eight questions, on the several subjects under consideration. He has incurred the time and expense of compiling this catalogue of questions, and had them printed for general circulation and for teachers in particular, which if studied by teacher and pupil, will enable each to improve in their respective callings and add harmony to the system, which is certainly desirable. Because, if you fail to instil this principle in the boy or girl, it is doubtful whether the man or woman will practice it in mature age, and therefore practice confusion for a lifetime. We are all creatures of education, and we should be very careful what we learn, or impart to others.

Jefferson County Highwaymen.—Our readers will remember the account recently given in these columns of a bold highway robbery committed about three miles from Punxsutawney, on the road leading from that place to Big Run, at which time a man named Brink, a resident of the latter place, was stabbed and beaten inhumanly, and then robbed of some $1,800 and two valuable watches. It will also be remembered that Dr. Allison, also a resident of Big Run, was riding in the buggy with Mr. Brink at the time of the occurrence, but was not assailed nor molested by the highwaymen. These were essentially the facts in the case as they were made known at the time, but from our exchanges we learn that on Saturday last some new developments were made, which have the effect to place some of the residents of Big Run in anything but an enviable position. On Saturday Isaac Chambers and George Palmer, of that place, confessed that inducements had been held out to them to assist in the robbery by Dr. Allison, Thomas Anderson and David Leach, but that when the time approached for the commission of the crime they "weakened" and refused to take part in it. Chambers and Palmer now allege that they received from Allison, Anderson and Leach the two watches and $90 of the amount stolen to keep quiet. But they allege that conscience was too strong for them and compelled them to tell what they knew. The plan for the robbery was for Dr. Allison to take Brink to Punxsutawney; get him helplessly drunk, and to start home with him at a late hour. If this was indeed the programme, it was certainly carried out, and was successful in so far as the perpetration of the robbery was concerned. The Dr. Allison spoken of was formerly a resident of Indiana county, and is reputably connected. All the parties mentioned above were arrested and taken to Punxsutawney for a hearing, on the 4th inst., and they were conveyed to Brookville, where they are now in prison.

We cannot speak too highly of it. How they could have everything good and every good thing prepared is almost a mystery. But they had it."

The next convention meets in the Second Presbyterian church in Altoona.

WATER! WATER!! WATER!!!

Below will be found a detailed statement of the cost of the Clarion water works, recently erected in that borough. The cost is far below what we supposed they could be erected for in any place. The Democrat, from which we copy the statement, says:

It was announced in these columns last week that the water works had been completed and were in operation. We have now an ample supply of the purest water to be found any where, and our property greatly protected from fire.

The Clarion Gas and Water Company was incorporated and a charter granted by the Legislature a couple of years ago, but until last summer nothing further was done. About the middle of August, books were opened for the subscription of stock and in a few days $12,000—the entire capital stock required—was subscribed. The contract for the water works was let August 20th, to P. S. Peterson, and the works commenced immediately. On Saturday, November 20th, the water was let into the mains, the whole work having been completed in three months. The trial test was most satisfactory, the job was accepted from the contractor, Mr. Peterson, and the works have been in successful operation ever since.

We give below a brief description of the works:

The pumping house is on the Clarion river, near Kelly's church, eight feet square, and contains four feet under the new water line, one stone and lime lining walled with heavy six gauge and arched, and as a whole is a most substantial supply of water, free from the least impurities of any open stream. From thence the water is forced to the reservoirs or tanks on Armstrong hill, a distance of three thousand two hundred and eighty feet, with an elevation or rise of five hundred feet. The boiler at the pump station is of Erie manufacture, and possesses thirty-five horse power. The actual horse power necessary for the work being twenty-one and one-half. The pumps are of by wheel pattern, with balance slide valves; water cylinder four inches in diameter; steam cylinder nine inches in diameter, with fourteen inches stroke.

They will lift 1.33 gallons per revolution. The motion for ordinary supply should be forty revolutions per minute, equal to 2,672 gallons per hour, and for fire demands sixty revolutions would be safe, throwing 3,506 gallons per hour.

The capacity of the tanks is 100,860 gallons, or about 2,500 barrels, the weight of water being 463 tons. The mains are six inch cast iron pipe on Main street from the storage to 2d West street, and four inch pipe from corner 2d West and Main and along Wood street to the "T" at Arnold avenue. Ten fire plugs are suitably located along the streets. The length of mains is one mile and 2,315 feet. Their capacity 8,757 gallons, making a total supply of 109,557 gallons. Average head or height of supply above town 372 feet, giving a hydraulic pressure on the main of thirty-eight pounds to the square inch. With the head and volume above named, four streams three-fourths of an inch in diameter, could be opened for four hours and fifty minutes, throwing collectively 374 gallons per minute. In that time the pumps at sixty revolutions per minute would lift sufficient water to continue the four streams for one hour and thirty-seven minutes—the total 5re supply being six hours and twenty-nine minutes. With the force and supply at hand a jet three-fourths of an inch in diameter should be thrown fifty feet perpendicularly and one hundred and thirty feet horizontally, sufficient to throw a three-quarter inch stream on the roof of the court house.

Six hundred feet of rubber hose has been purchased by the borough. It is two inches in diameter, is in fifty foot sections, with nozzles three-fourths of an inch in diameter.

The entire itemized cost of the water works foots up $13,493, a most remarkably low sum considering their completeness and convenience.

The organization is as follows: President, Hon. Jas. Campbell; Treasurer, N. Myers; Secretary, R. D. Campbell. Board of Managers—Col J. B. Knox, Dr. J. P. Rose, Thos. S. Wilson, Esq., C. C. Bouvier, C. A. Rankin. Superintendent—R. B. Thomas.

Tribute of Respect.—At a meeting of the Leonard Literary Association, held Friday evening, December 10th, the death of Charles C. Park was formally announced by the President, after which the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God to call from time into eternity Charles C. Park, a member of the Leonard Literary Association, and believing that our Heavenly Father doeth all things well, we, deeply feeling our loss, acquience in the Divine will, which none of us can question; be it

Resolved, That this association, by his death, has lost a valuable member.

Resolved, That we extend our sympathy to the bereaved parents, who mourn the departure of a loving and devoted son.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be presented to the parents of the deceased, and that they be published in the town papers.

Tribute of Respect.—At a meeting of the students of Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, the following were unanimously adopted:

Whereas An all-wise God, in His providence, has seen fit to remove from our midst, by a very sudden death, our worthy and esteemed friend, Charles C. Park, of Clearfield, Pa., we, his fellow students of Jefferson Medical College, deem it right and proper to give expression to our sorrow at the sad intelligence, and to convey to his afflicted family some assurance of our sympathy. Therefore, be it

Resolved, That while we bow in humble submission to the will of the Supreme Physician, we recognize in the death of our fellow-student a serious loss, one that will long be remembered and deeply felt among us, as his disposition and conversation were such as to endear him to all who knew him. We truly lament his removal from our midst, but hope that our loss may be his infinite gain.

Resolved, That in this time of their deep affliction at the loss of their only child, we sincerely tender our warmest sympathies to his bereaved Father and Mother, and hope this assurance of our love and respect for our deceased brother may be received as evidence that others partake with them in their anguish.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be printed in the Clearfield papers and the Public Ledger, of Philadelphia, and that they become a part of the minutes of the class of '75 and '76.

Incendiarism.—Thieves and incendiaries plied their vocation in our neighboring borough last week. The Philipsburg Journal, of Saturday, says:

On Friday morning, by nine o'clock, all that was left of 1,700,000 feet of dry pine and hemlock lumber, at the mills of J. F. Steiner & Son, just opposite town, was a long line of ash heaps—About two o'clock in the morning fire was seen breaking out simultaneously in three places among the lumber, and although every effort was made by those who hastened to the scene, nothing could be accomplished against the flames, and the utmost that could be done was to save the mill, which was fortunately accomplished. That the act of firing the lumber was a deliberate deed there can be no doubt. The mill is a water mill, has not been running for some time and there is no other theory to account for the breaking out of the fire in three separate spots. Furthermore, it would seem that the intention was to destroy the mill as well, the plug having been taken from the stationery fire pump so as to prevent its use. The reason that the removal of the plug indicates the intention to burn the mill is that the engine, when in running order, was useless except to the power of the mill itself. Fortunately M. Gowland has a pump similar in every respect in his foundry, and the plug of his pump was borrowed and the engine thus operated to save the mill. All the lumber in the yard, except about 50,000 feet piled near the mill, was totally destroyed, involving a loss of from $12,000 to $13,000, on which there was an insurance of only about $6,000, Messrs. Steiner & Son suffering an actual loss of at least $6,000. This is the third incendiary fire, destructive of a large quantity of lumber, in this vicinity within as many months, and the alarming frequency and great loss entailed may well excite grave apprehension.

The store of Messrs. C. Munson & Son was burglarized one night last week, and a quantity of goods carried off.

Medical Strategy.—The Miltonian relates the following, as the result of a hunt:

On Saturday last a man by the name of Dougherty, from Nippenose valley, was on a hunting expedition in White Deer Valley, and while resting on his gun with the left hand over the muzzle and the right arm resting on the left hand, the gun was accidentally discharged and the load passed through the left hand and upper third of the right arm, near the shoulder, producing a compound, communuted fracture, of the worst character. Dr. Frankenmiller was called in and dressed the wounds and on Sunday sent for Dr. T. W. Mowky, of Jersey Shore, for the purpose of performing amputation at the shoulder joint but found that the patient had not sufficiently reacted to justify an operation at that time. The doctor returned on the Tuesday following and with the assistance of Drs. Frankenmiller, of White Deer Valley, and Lesser, of Watsontown, performed the operation of resection or excision of the ends of the bones for the purpose of saving the arm if possible. The ends were then united, with the hope that they will knit together. If successful, the patient will have a good arm, though somewhat shorter than before the accident. The operation is a difficult one, and we learn was successfully performed. This is the third operation of this character that Dr. Mowkey has performed within the past three years, and in both the other cases the bones were saved, as is hoped will be the case in this instance. The doctor deserves credit for his skillful effort to save the patient's arm, as the most usual method in cases of similar wounds is to amputate at the shoulder joint.

Oil Well Fire.—We learn that on Wednesday evening, the 25d ult., the gas took fire at Mr. Hagoo's new well, east of Sheffield, on the P. & E. Railroad, seriously burning the driller and Mr. McNair, of Sheffield. It appears that they had just struck a new vein of gas and some oil. People were consequently excited in expectation of a big well. Mr. McNair, as we hear it, went near the well with a lighted lantern before the driller saw him. Of course the gas took fire in the shanty and well. The explosion threw the driller several feet burning him and McNair badly and shaking up things in a lively manner in all directions. On Thursday the gas in the well was still burning, throwing a flame fifty or sixty feet into the air. It was probably some such an explosion as occurred on Oil Creek many years ago, when Mr. Rouse and others lost their lives.—Erie Advocate.

Wanamaker & Brown, clothiers of Philadelphia, are a responsible firm to deal with. They make boy's clothing and make them right. Their prices are remarkably low, and the wonder is how they can be so low. The best of all is, however, they have but one price for each article, and that price all must pay alike. There is no such thing as "saving" allowed. If you buy there you always know that you are getting your money's worth and nobody can buy cheaper.

Singular Fatal Accident.—The Selinsgrove Times says:

On Monday, at a butchering at Riland's on the other side the river, a Mr Hiram Dill lost his life by a singular accident. They had two hogs lying on a sled and were engaged at cleaning them—Hiram Dill was engaged at work at the forward end of the sled, and after cleaning one side of the hog he attempted to jump over the hog to the other side of the sled, with his knife in his hand, and slipped and fell, striking the sled runner with the elbow of the arm he was holding the knife with. The knife entered the side of his neck cutting of the jugular vein, and passing into the spinal marrow, or, as the doctors call it, medulla oblongata. He got up and started for the house, with the blood spurting up where his head; but before he got to the house he fell and fainted. It so happened that some person came there on horseback just at that time, and he went to Sam very with all haste and brought Dr. Mowry in about half an hour. Before the doctor arrived the bleeding had been stopped by bandaging, and by means of a stimulant the man had been brought to consciousness. He imagined his wife spoke had been cut, and that he had to die, but he was assured this was a mistake and that there was a chance for his life if there was nothing worse than the cutting of the vein. After the doctor had left, he had a spell of vomiting, which started the bleeding, but was soon stopped. He then became unconscious and remained so till he died, which occurred on Tuesday. He was a poor man and leaves a wife and five children to distribute sympathies.

Pay Your Taxes.—The County Commissioners have given me emphatic notice that if my duplicate for 1875 is not settled up by the 1st of January, that the Sheriff will be after the money soon after that time. Those, therefore, who have not paid me their county tax for 1873 and 1874, or 1875, had better pay up if they want to do the fair thing and save costs beside, as I am determined not to pay other people's debts or keep the county out of its just dues coming from others.
