

The Indiana leaders in this county are constantly advising economy in public expenditure. This right; but they should have their friends practice what they preach.

To show that they are hypocrites, we need but refer our readers to a single item. In the neighboring county of Indiana, which gives 2,000 Radical majority, and hold no more than we do in Clearfield, the Auditors' report shows that the County Commissioners charged the taxpayers of that county $1,882 for their last year's services, being an average of $627.50 for each member of the board.

General Butler has his revolving eye fixed upon the axis of a seat in the forty-fifth Congress.

The 70ers all claim to be free men; yet they all take an oath to obey their Foreman and Marshal, who lash them around far worse than any slave driver ever plied his vociferation.

Some of the 70ers are holding "Haves and Have-nots" sales. If they will visit "Hart and Hayes" we will consider the occasion—Philadelphia Press.

That all arises from the fact that Grant failed to reappoint the brother of the deputy editor of the Press Pension Agent recently. How innocent some people are, anyhow!

A GOOD IDEA.—The Chicago Inter-Ocean is in search of a man in Congress who will "bring in a measure for the resumption of prosperity." This measure which is to accomplish this wonderful result is a patent reversible, double-barrel action, iron-convertible bomb system. Yes, who is the man? Don't all speak at once.

Under the provisions of the bill regarding the pay of officers of the army over half a million dollars a year. Gen. Sherman's annual pay will be reduced from $130,000 to $100,000. Gen. Sheridan from $100,000 to $75,000. Major Generals from $50,000 to $37,500. Brigadiers from $27,500 to $25,000.

The Governor's Successors.—By the conviction of M'Kee, editor of The Globe, the administration of General Grant is left without a newspaper organ in St. Louis, or at least with an organ without an editor.

The Ringer Struck.—The editor of the Danville Intelligencer says that public attention is being drawn to a subject where reform is needed—the women's department of our penitentiaries and prisons.

Where ignorance is bliss, 'tis folly to be wise; is an old adage. The editor of the Ochsenaught seems to have fallen heir to this fate. In alluding to the organization of Pino district, in his last issue, he says:

There is not a single iota of truth in the above paragraph. In proof of what I say, in relation to taxes, we need but refer our readers to the County Auditors' report, found in this issue. Look for Pino School District, and see if the lands are not taxed as elsewhere.

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

Marshal—A poor working man who has heard of your Order and wishes to become a member of it, that he may be freed from the chains of slavery, forged and riveted upon him by the tyrant capitalist and his willing tools.

Foreman—'Are you sure he is a working man? May he not be a canting hypocritical politician, or one of his spies that come here to sow discord among us that we may continue his nefarious practices?

Foreman—Then with open arms we receive him. Brothers, a workman comes here one of our Order, and his companion at last find they are worthy, and, as a last thing, ever a bitter Radical, who wants to be a candidate for office, but who is not either a laborer or a merchant.

Foreman—'Are you sure he is a working man? May he not be a canting hypocritical politician, or one of his spies that come here to sow discord among us that we may continue his nefarious practices?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

He is a man who has heard of your Order and wishes to become a member of it, that he may be freed from the chains of slavery, forged and riveted upon him by the tyrant capitalist and his willing tools.

Foreman—'Are you sure he is a working man? May he not be a canting hypocritical politician, or one of his spies that come here to sow discord among us that we may continue his nefarious practices?

Foreman—Then with open arms we receive him. Brothers, a workman comes here one of our Order, and his companion at last find they are worthy, and, as a last thing, ever a bitter Radical, who wants to be a candidate for office, but who is not either a laborer or a merchant.

Foreman—'Are you sure he is a working man? May he not be a canting hypocritical politician, or one of his spies that come here to sow discord among us that we may continue his nefarious practices?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

He is a man who has heard of your Order and wishes to become a member of it, that he may be freed from the chains of slavery, forged and riveted upon him by the tyrant capitalist and his willing tools.

Foreman—'Are you sure he is a working man? May he not be a canting hypocritical politician, or one of his spies that come here to sow discord among us that we may continue his nefarious practices?

Foreman—Then with open arms we receive him. Brothers, a workman comes here one of our Order, and his companion at last find they are worthy, and, as a last thing, ever a bitter Radical, who wants to be a candidate for office, but who is not either a laborer or a merchant.

Foreman—'Are you sure he is a working man? May he not be a canting hypocritical politician, or one of his spies that come here to sow discord among us that we may continue his nefarious practices?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

He is a man who has heard of your Order and wishes to become a member of it, that he may be freed from the chains of slavery, forged and riveted upon him by the tyrant capitalist and his willing tools.

Foreman—'Are you sure he is a working man? May he not be a canting hypocritical politician, or one of his spies that come here to sow discord among us that we may continue his nefarious practices?

Foreman—Then with open arms we receive him. Brothers, a workman comes here one of our Order, and his companion at last find they are worthy, and, as a last thing, ever a bitter Radical, who wants to be a candidate for office, but who is not either a laborer or a merchant.

Foreman—'Are you sure he is a working man? May he not be a canting hypocritical politician, or one of his spies that come here to sow discord among us that we may continue his nefarious practices?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

He is a man who has heard of your Order and wishes to become a member of it, that he may be freed from the chains of slavery, forged and riveted upon him by the tyrant capitalist and his willing tools.

Foreman—'Are you sure he is a working man? May he not be a canting hypocritical politician, or one of his spies that come here to sow discord among us that we may continue his nefarious practices?

Foreman—Then with open arms we receive him. Brothers, a workman comes here one of our Order, and his companion at last find they are worthy, and, as a last thing, ever a bitter Radical, who wants to be a candidate for office, but who is not either a laborer or a merchant.

Foreman—'Are you sure he is a working man? May he not be a canting hypocritical politician, or one of his spies that come here to sow discord among us that we may continue his nefarious practices?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

He is a man who has heard of your Order and wishes to become a member of it, that he may be freed from the chains of slavery, forged and riveted upon him by the tyrant capitalist and his willing tools.

Foreman—'Are you sure he is a working man? May he not be a canting hypocritical politician, or one of his spies that come here to sow discord among us that we may continue his nefarious practices?

Foreman—Then with open arms we receive him. Brothers, a workman comes here one of our Order, and his companion at last find they are worthy, and, as a last thing, ever a bitter Radical, who wants to be a candidate for office, but who is not either a laborer or a merchant.

Foreman—'Are you sure he is a working man? May he not be a canting hypocritical politician, or one of his spies that come here to sow discord among us that we may continue his nefarious practices?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

He is a man who has heard of your Order and wishes to become a member of it, that he may be freed from the chains of slavery, forged and riveted upon him by the tyrant capitalist and his willing tools.

Foreman—'Are you sure he is a working man? May he not be a canting hypocritical politician, or one of his spies that come here to sow discord among us that we may continue his nefarious practices?

Foreman—Then with open arms we receive him. Brothers, a workman comes here one of our Order, and his companion at last find they are worthy, and, as a last thing, ever a bitter Radical, who wants to be a candidate for office, but who is not either a laborer or a merchant.

Foreman—'Are you sure he is a working man? May he not be a canting hypocritical politician, or one of his spies that come here to sow discord among us that we may continue his nefarious practices?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

Foreman—'Ha! whom have we here, brother Marshal?

Advertisement for W. M. Reed's Fire Clay Co., Clearfield, Pa. listing various products like brick, tiles, and machinery.

Advertisement for W. M. Reed's Dry Goods Emporium, Clearfield, Pa. listing various goods and services.

Advertisement for T. A. Fleck & Co., Clearfield, Pa. listing various goods and services.

Advertisement for Frazier's Centennial, Clearfield, Pa. listing various goods and services.

Advertisement for John Troutman's Furniture, Clearfield, Pa. listing various furniture items.

Advertisement for 'The Republican' newspaper, listing subscription rates and contact information.

Advertisement for 'The Republican' newspaper, listing subscription rates and contact information.

Advertisement for 'The Republican' newspaper, listing subscription rates and contact information.

Advertisement for 'The Republican' newspaper, listing subscription rates and contact information.

Advertisement for 'The Republican' newspaper, listing subscription rates and contact information.